Kennedy Mourners

Five Hours For Touch

NEW YORK (UPI) — The people who touched Bobby Kennedy's hand in life reached out Friday to touch his casket in death.

By the hundreds of thousands they came—rich and poor, black and white, old and young, male and female, immigrant and native-born, a vast polyglot stream of humanity united by a common sorrow.

Undeterred by 90-degree heat which turned midtown Manhattan into a bakeoven, they waited in line for upwards of five hours in order to spend five seconds filing past the bier in St. Patrick's cathedral where Senator Robert Kennedy lay in state. (See also Page 5.)

The throng of people wanting to say goodbye to the 42-year-old senator whose brilliant career was cut short by an assassin Wednesday in Los Angeles was so great that authorities had to abandon plans to cut off the procession at 10 p.m. They announced that the great neo-Gothic Roman Catholic Cathedral on Fifth Avenue would remain open all night.

BIGGEST YET

It was the biggest outpouring of grief in the big city's history.

Funeral services for the senator will be held in the cathedral at 7 a.m. PDT today. All of the 2,300 seats will be filled with dignitaries, friends, relatives and other guests invited by the family.

The two men who were Kennedy's rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination—Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Senator Eugene McCarthy—said they would attend. President Johnson's plans were not announced, but no one would be surprised if he showed up.

Following the funeral mass, the body will be taken to Washington by train for burial late this afternoon in Arlington National Cemetery.

De Gaulle Claims Start Of Quebec 'Liberation'

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle said Friday that one of the revolutionary actions of his life was to bring the beginning of the liberation of the French people in Canada.

This passing reference to his famous "Vive le Québec libre" cry during his curtailed tour of Canada last year was part of a list of occasions in which he had been a revolutionary that the French president gave in his television interview Friday night.

* * *

Others he mentioned were starting the resistance to Nazi occupation, giving the right to vote to women and Africans, achieving decolonization, starting a process of uniting Europe through a rapprochement between East, centre and West, and helping developing countries.

In Ottawa, spokesman for Prime Minister Trudeau said there would be no comment on the French president's statement until the full text of his remarks had been studied.

'Third Way' for France:

Share Profit, Control

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle proposed Friday night a "third solution" to France's grave social problems, a course that would in his view avoid the "moral and material constraint" of communism and the "alienation" of the capitalist system.

De Gaulle said the solution was "participation," by which he appeared to mean that workers and managers would share in the profits and control the businesses. He said the idea was revolutionary "in so far as it consists in changing profoundly that which exists."

George Seguy, Communist leader of France's largest worker syndicate, commented Friday night: "The words change but the content remains the same. They're hollow formulas that are not the stuff to satisfy the workers."

* * *

De Gaulle appealed for massive public support of his proposals for the June 23-30 elections and said everything depends on the voting results, "the republic, liberty, progress, independence and peace."

"If the election results are bad, all is lost," he added.

'Dotted Dress' Reports To Sheriff

LAT, Reuters, UPI

LOS ANGELES — Central County Jail officials Friday night stopped a 25-year-old woman from smuggling three loaded hand guns into the jail that holds accused slayer of Senator Robert Kennedy, Sirhan Sirhan.

Police arrested Edith Grant after inspecting a portable typewriter case which had two Derringers and a revolver taped to its metal backing.

Prison officials said Miss Grant was delivering the weapons to Jay Bayer, held on a petty theft charge. Bayer, who is acting as his own attorney, had received court permission to use a typewriter to prepare documents for his case.

SEPARATE BUILDING

The jail hospital where Sirhan is confined is a separate building from the jail proper where Bayer is housed. The two structures are connected by a passageway. A deputy said Bayer's cell is on the opposite side of the jail from the infirmary.

Police said Miss Grant got no further than the first checkpoint—a closed off security area at the entrance to the jail.

FORMAL CHARGE

Sirhan was indicted Friday afternoon for murder in the death of Kennedy.

The Los Angeles County grand jury also formally accused the slight but very Jordanian immigrant of feloniously assaulting—with intent to commit murder—five other persons wounded during the shooting spree at the Ambassador Hotel here early Wednesday morning.

VICTIMS PRESENT

Two of the shooting victims, Ira Goldstein and Irwin Stroll, were among the witnesses who testified.

Three of those wounded during the shooting spree at the Ambassador Hotel were unable to appear because of the seriousness of their injuries.

After the indictment was returned, Sirhan was arraigned at the Central County Jail—rather than in court—by Superior Judge Arthur Alarcon. The judge ordered him to return June 26 to enter plea.

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — A belly dancer who said she believes she is the "young woman in a polka dot dress" sought in connection with the murder of Senator Robert Kennedy gave herself up to the Los Angeles sheriff's department Friday.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess said the girl denied knowing the suspected assassin—Sirhan Sirhan—but said she saw him before the crime near the Ambassador Hotel halfway between Kennedy was shot.

Shortly after Pitchess' announcement, the Los Angeles police department said it had questioned and released two other possible "polka dot" girls.

Police had put out an all points bulletin for a woman a Kennedy worker said she saw running from the building after the crime, screaming, "We shot him." The witness said the woman wore a polka dot dress.

Pitchess said the girl who gave herself up—identified as Kathy Fulmer, 19, of Los Angeles—to him she had been near the senator when he was shot, had been wearing a polka dot scarf, and had run from the building after the shooting.

LINK DENIED

But she insisted she had shouted, "They shot him, not we shot him," Pitchess said, and she denied any connection with the shooting.

After talking with Pitchess and his investigators, the girl was questioned by Los Angeles police department detectives, who have primary investigative jurisdiction in the murder.

Pitchess said the young woman called his office shortly before 4 p.m., identified herself, and said she believed she was the woman police were seeking. A sheriff's car brought her to the Hall of Justice.

She matched the description be near that of his older brother, President John Kennedy, who also was cut down by an assassin's bullet in the brain, just four and a half years ago.

Friday was the little guy's day to honor a man who was born to wealth but always had a tremendous feeling for the poor and oppressed.

CLODED CASKET

As they passed the African mahogany casket at a rate of 6,000 an hour, some made the sign of the cross or genuflected. But the most characteristic gesture was to stretch forth a hand and touch the lid of the closed casket.

There is an old Irish superstition that touching a casket keeps the devil from troubling the soul of the deceased. But many who patted, rubbed, caressed or kissed Kennedy's casket were plainly not of Irish descent. For them, it seemed to be purely a gesture of affection — another manifestation of the Kennedy mystique that caused crowds to stampede around him, trying to touch him, during his short and explosive presidential campaign.

The senator's widow, Ethel, pregnant with their 11th child, came to the cathedral at noon with the three eldest children: Kathleen, 17, Joseph P. III, 16, and Robert Jr., 14. They knelt in a front pew while a priest offered a mass for the dead, intoned the prayer:

"May light eternal shine upon him, O Lord ... be merciful to the soul your faithful servant Robert."

FAMILIAR ROUTE

Mrs. Kennedy, whose trademark is a hairbow, wore a black one for this sad occasion — a man and a woman — to see the senator," Pitchess said. "She denied knowing the suspect, but she says she saw him on the platform before the shooting and later recognized him from pictures."

Another witness has placed the suspect in the hallway behind the platform for hours before the shooting. Kennedy was shot in the hallway a few seconds after leaving the platform, from which he had addressed a victory rally.

of the bulletin," Pitchess said. "She was young, attractive, and wearing a blonde, bouffant wig."

He said the girl had seen news accounts of the description, "taken some time to think about it, and decided to call us." She seemed sincere in wanting to eliminate herself as someone who was involved (in the murder)."

The sheriff said he had no details concerning the young woman's address or employment, but other local officials said a records check showed she had worked recently as a belly dancer.

"She said she was active in the Kennedy campaign, and went to the Ambassador Tuesday night with two companions — a man and a woman — to see the senator," Pitchess said.

"She denied knowing the suspect, but she says she saw him on the platform before the shooting and later recognized him from pictures."

Human Body Water Quota

About 2½ Quarts a Day

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like to see an article on drinking water. I am 66 and feel good. I drink about one glass of milk a week (with my cereal), juice every day, two cups of coffee and two cups of tea a day, soup every day, about two glasses of water every day.

Is it better to drink more water in place of other liquids? — A.M.

Your fluid intake sounds fine to me, and I can't see any reason to worry. But let's analyse the whole thing anyway.

An average adult requires about 2½ quarts of water a day for health. But — and this answers your specific question — it doesn't make any difference what form the water may be in.

A cup of coffee is just water plus what color and flavoring it picks up from the coffee grounds. Same for tea. A cup (or glassful) can be roughly figured at five to eight ounces, or two or three cups to a pint, depending on how big the cups is. So you're two cups of coffee, two of tea, and two glasses of water work out to about three pints, or a quart and a half day.

Your Good Health

You should be getting 2½ quarts — and you probably are. But where does that other quart come from?

Well, there's your little bit of milk, and your daily fruit juice, but that's only a few more ounces.

The fact is that you are getting a lot of water in your food. I don't mean the fluid that you may be able to see in such vegetables as stewed tomatoes or such. A lot of water you never see at all.

WATER IN BREAD

Bread contains water, but becomes stale and drier as the moisture evaporates. Even meat contains a lot of water — as in a juicy steak.

As I said in the beginning, the average adult needs 2½ quarts a day, but it doesn't matter what form it is in. If you work hard and sweat, you need more.

Happily, we have a built-in regulator. If we aren't getting enough water, we become thirsty. A wonderful machine, the human body!

the party leaders are in the studio preparing for the program.

Each leader has been assigned a room near the studio in which to complete preparations for the debate. A TV makeup crew headed by Jim Michie of CBC Toronto will visit each room during the 90 minutes prior to the program, which will use six color cameras.

Aides will have to remain in the assigned rooms when the leaders head for the studio.

TO EVERYBODY

David Orr, a CBC Ottawa information officer, said the program will be carried by CTV, all TV and radio networks of the CBC and a string of non-network stations which have been offered the complete feed.

It will be sent to CBC northern transmitters from the powerful shortwave transmitter at Sackville, N.B., and thus be available to listeners everywhere in North America. A cable feed to the Canadian forces station in Europe would be recorded by the BBC in London for shortwave transmission Monday.

Orr estimated a domestic audience of between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 viewers and listeners. A survey firm had been retained to determine the actual number of TV sets.

CAOUETTE RETIRES

The format of the debate, previously announced, will be a series of questions to the leaders from three TV journalists, Ron Collier of the CBC-TV English network, Jean-Marie Poiloin of the French network and Tom Gould of CTV.

All four leaders will be introduced at the outset. Then TV audience, will come on 30 seconds before his allotted time expires. If his statement runs overtime, the light will start flashing.

Moderators Charles Templeton of CTV and Pierre Nadeau of CBC will have to decide whether any speaker is abusing the time rule. A decision on how this should be done still is being worked out.

MacPherson told reporters the three questioners will have complete freedom in selecting their subjects. But a meeting would be held today with network executives to ensure against too much duplication.

An important announcement for all residents of British Columbia

BE SURE you are covered under the British Columbia-Canada Medicare Plan before July 1, 1968

Monday, July 1, 1968, will mark the beginning of a new era in medical coverage for all residents of British Columbia.

On that date, the British Columbia-Canada Medicare Plan will begin operating under a scheme by which, for the first time, the Federal Government will contribute a share of the costs of services performed for you by a physician or surgeon.

What you must do right away

If you are now a contributor to a non-profit medical insurance organization that is licensed to operate under the Plan, your name will be automatically registered as of July 1. But it is your responsibility to see that your name is or will be registered.

If you are not currently a member of such an organization, or are in doubt as to whether or not the medical services plan to which you contribute is a licensed one, you are obliged to make sure now.

It is to your advantage to have your name and the name of your dependents registered with a licensed medical plan without delay. An application may be made by you, your employer, or a person acting on your behalf. If you wish, you can apply immediately to join the British Columbia Medical Services Plan in Victoria.

If your medical care coverage is with an insurance company, it does not qualify. It will be necessary for you to apply to a licensed medical plan or have your employers apply for you.

A medical plan that is not licensed will not be in business in British Columbia after July 1 due to the Federal Government Medicare Act.

The new regulations do not interfere with any agreement or arrangement between an employer and his employees regarding the proportion or percentage of the gross premium shared, nor with any arrangement for the collection and remittance of premiums by payroll deduction.

Under the British Columbia-Canada Medicare Plan, the range of medical services and the schedule of monthly rates will be the same for all qualifying medical plans.

However, provision is made for other benefits provided by any such plan to continue as a separate sector of that plan's business.

(a) Basic Premium Rate

for a subscriber with no dependents $ 5.00 per month

for a subscriber with one dependent 10.00 per month

for a subscriber with two or more dependents 12.50 per month

(b) For a person who qualifies as an "eligible person" under the Medical Grant Act and who had no taxable income for the immediately previous taxation year for a subscriber with no dependents $.50 per month

for a subscriber with one dependent 1.00 per month

for a subscriber with two or more dependents 1.25 per month

(c) For a person who qualifies as an "eligible person" under the Medical Grant Act and whose taxable income for the immediately preceding taxation year did not exceed One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00)

for a subscriber with no dependents $ 2.50 per month

for a subscriber with one dependent 5.00 per month

for a subscriber with two or more dependents 6.25 per month

NOTE: for the purpose of administration, the Plan year for which premiums under (b) and (c) listed above are paid shall be July 1 to June 30 and changes in status from year to year shall be effected in accordance with that twelve month period.

Do not delay. Make sure your name is registered in a non-profit licensed plan.

If it is not, apply now.

Aggression
Main Concern

SAIGON (Reuters) — Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia said Friday that, if North Vietnam's invasion of the South was successful, the repercussions would be felt far beyond the borders of South Vietnam.

Gorton, who arrived on a three-day visit, was speaking at a government luncheon in his honor.

He said that, if North Vietnam's invasion was successful and if peace talks did not result in the South Vietnamese being able to have a government of their free choice "then there will have been a success of aggression which will be felt beyond the borders of the country."

That was why Australia was on South Vietnam's side, he said.

Plutonium Deal

Canada, France Waiting

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian authorities said Friday there is no possibility that Canada and France would disregard the views of France's Common Market partners and go ahead over their objections with proposed French purchase of Canadian plutonium.

Informants said here that Canada and France would undertake further discussions of the sale if the six-nation European Atomic Energy Community-called Euratom-refused to agree to the terms.

* * *

A Brussels report earlier Friday said France appears to be headed for a dispute with its Common Market partners over the plutonium deal.

The report said high-ranking Common Market officials are furious about the plutonium contract and fear France and Canada may go ahead with the sale without awaiting the views of the other Common Market countries.

* * *

A source here said that when Canada and France reached agreement on certain conditions of the sale, such as joint inspection to make sure the Canadian plutonium is used only for peaceful purposes, it was never envisaged that the deal would go through over objections from Euratom, which is reported to claim exclusive inspection and control rights within the community.

NIGHT SHELLS
The night shellings have killed 97 civilians and wounded 368 since May 5. In the latest bombardment, some of the 122-millimetre Soviet-made rockets landed near Westmoreland's home.

The missiles have ranged from 82-millimetre mortar shells to 122-millimetre rockets and the number of incoming rounds per night has varied from six to 40.

Fighting inside Saigon and in the Gia Dinh suburb northeast of the capital tapered off Friday and government troops reported only minor contact with small pockets of guerrilla resistance.

TOLL COUNT

The government announced that since May 5, government forces have killed 2,778 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers and captured 313. Government losses were put at 245 killed, 333 wounded and 26 missing.

There was some new fighting along the demilitarized zone. An estimated 150 North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. marines four miles southeast of the Khe Sanh combat base. The marines reported 49 Northern dead and 13 marines killed and 37 wounded.

A Brussels report earlier Friday said France appears to be headed for a dispute with its Common Market partners over the plutonium deal.

Beyond Ottawa Control

ONE PROBLEM to which the candidates of all the political parties would like to promise a solution is interest rates.

Interest rates have never been higher. One leading Canadian investment company which produces a monthly bond average says that in May the average yield on 40 Canadian bonds was nearly 8 per cent.

Anyone who can borrow money from the banks, which not so long ago had the lowest rates of the lending institutions, is lucky if he can get it at 8 per cent. More than likely he will have to pay a little more.

No money is available for mortgage loans at less than 8½ to 9 per cent, and even the government guaranteed NHA loans are running about that level.

Under NHA regulations a person should not pay more than 27 per cent of his income (including 50 per cent of the income of his wife) for shelter, and this excludes from maximum home financing persons who are not making more than $8,000 a year.

Many persons, of course, manage to secure loans on second charges above the NHA "safety ratio," out of desperation and at very high cost.

Home-ownership is only one facet of the inflationary trends that are the direct result of high interest rates.

Unhappily, much as the political parties would like, they are unable to come up with an overall remedy. The fact remains that the U.S. involvement in Asia and elsewhere has created a demand for money that is world-wide. Canada is quite unable to go alone on a low interest rate economy while across the line the cost of money remains high. If this were tried the flow of money from Canada would immediately create a new dollar crisis, and a quick run for cover. Any politician who thinks otherwise is naive in the extreme.

Suggestions have been made that the government should subsidize municipalities to provide low rental housing developments but this has its drawbacks too in that it creates two classes of society—those who are paying high prices for their own homes and are then through taxes being asked to pay a share of the home costs of those across the street who have council houses and may have much higher incomes.

As the government for the past three years has been quite unable to alleviate the situation, there is no good reason to believe that, despite promises, the government can now do any better if re-elected.

Writing on the Wall

THE REGIONAL DISTRICT as instituted in British Columbia had as one of its primary purposes the reduction of the number of separate boards administering services shared by several municipalities and unorganized territories. This aim is gradually being achieved. But now the handwriting begins to appear on the wall for the local governments represented in the regional districts. If economy and efficiency and the enhanced ability to progress for the common good of entire regional communities are the results of such concentration, would they not also be the desirable results of combining the separate municipalities themselves?

This appears to be the view of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, for he recently told the annual meeting of the British Columbia Chamber of Commerce that municipal government will need a "complete restructuring" to meet the needs of the future; that there will have to be regional financing for such problems as pollution control, urban transit control, garbage disposal and the effective use of land for housing, and that "those who stand in the way of political and functional amalgamation will simply go down the drain."

If one doubts that this is a realistic prediction, it is interesting to note that it is backed up by an economist from the other side of the country, Professor Jacques Parizeau, economic adviser to the Quebec government, who likewise and even more plainly asserted before the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities that municipal governments are on the way out: "Once regional governments become established in urban areas, municipalities as we know them today will vanish." The process, the professor thought, would take ten years in provinces with urban-based political power, twice as long in those with predominantly rural-based political power.

The forecasts make sense. At this point probably no provincial government would be brave enough or foolish enough to seek to order the amalgamation of the municipalities of a district forming an economic, social, geographic unit. But as the powers of the regional districts grow and extend to further functions, so undoubtedly will public awareness of the decline of importance—but not of expense—of a multiplicity of councils and municipal halls and municipal staffs.

Senseless Crime

CAPT. WILLIAM EXLEY of the transport department, who is responsible for the maintenance of lights and buoys on the West Coast, is complaining of vandalism involving these navigation aids.

Two or three untended lights, he reports, are deliberately sabotaged each month.

This is the sort of mischief which can only be attributed to an unhinged mind or to an immature mentality which cannot appreciate the possible tragic consequences of the act.

Shipmasters very largely depend upon lights and buoys in the navigation of these coastal waters and more often than not these aids mark areas of extreme hazard.

The wreckers on the Cornish coast who lured ships to destruction with false beacons at least had the motive of profit to explain their perversity.

But the light vandals are simply malevolent.

None has been caught. And it might be useful to offer a reward for information leading to their apprehension.

It is too much to hope that they will be overtaken by the retribution that caused Sir Ralph the Rover to tear his hair. Schoolboys of another era will remember that he cut the bell from the Inchcape Rock and subsequently wrecked his ship there. A very proper fate.

Trudeau Throws Scorn at Vulgar Quips

When Separatists Attempt an Ambush

YOU should see Go-Go Trudeau going in Quebec. Could he be in campaigning across La Belle Province than he's reaching more voters than he could stamping anywhere else across the land.

Not directly, in person, for generally except for a big cities, his crowds haven't been large.

But reaching them indirectly as his words flash across the country, when he crosses verbal swords with the separatists.

The cut and thrust is savage. Nobody else in public life, English or French, has dared to confront them with such head-on impact.

More in sorrow than anger, former Prime Minister Pearson fought them tenderly with soft, mallow words.

He made a rule of equating French with English separatists, although few people outside of Quebec were calling for a break-up of Confederation, and except in Montreal, there weren't many terrorists planting bombs in mail boxes and industrial plants.

How different with Pierre Elliott Trudeau, this young prime minister with the new tough and uncompromising style.

Listen to him as he takes on the separatists when they tried to ambush him on the campaign trail through the rich and rolling farmlands of the old townships south and east of Montreal.

There they were, about 30 of them, in two groups, planted in the crowds that varied between 300 and 600 at several of his stops for informal platform pitches.

The way in which the department of agriculture is subsidizing this system was made clear in the recent report, Hunger USA, prepared under the direction of a commission of distinguished citizens. While that report shows 256 counties where malnutrition and severe hunger are chronic drew an initial reaction of shock and a few kind words from Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. Its real significance was overlooked. A series of tables reveals the huge federal payments to the big agricultural producers who get payments of $5,000 or more a year. They are paid to keep land out of production in states where up to an estimated 50 percent of the population lives in poverty.

The big operators in the South and Southwest have mechanized their operations. Agricultural labor—except for migrants and the need for them—is diminished—and has been thrown out. They are forced onto relief and in the longer counties relief is deliberately kept down to encourage the dispossessed to leave.

The South is, in short, exporting the North hunger, misery, illiteracy. The result, as Hunger USA suggests, can be catastrophic.

The separatists, understanding every biting word, took it in silent silence.

Then the prime minister spoke to the crowd at large.

"There are some troublemakers here, some pretending to be English-speaking, others pretending to be good Quebecers. They are creators of hate. They preach anarchy. Let us dump them in the garbage."

The prime minister was correct in his assessment.

The separatists masquerading as English speak flawless French. And both groups used the trunks of the same cars to lug their signs from place to place.

Their separatist signs not only were crude, but a few bits on the foul side.

In obvious reference to the prime minister's legislation, drafted when he was justice minister, relaxing laws against abortion, homosexuality and divorce, one of the separatists carried a sign reading:

"Thank you Trudeau — I am a homosexual!"

For that disastrous demonstrator, the tough prime minister came up with a crusher:

"You don't have to tell us you're a homosexual. That's pretty obvious and it doesn't interest any of us."

The crowd applauded. Then laughed at the embarrassed separatist, lost for an answer, lowered his sign, walked away and flung it in the open trunk of one of the cars, along with the rest of the demonstrators' junky placards.

It was pretty much of a rout.

And as the other separatists threw their signs into the car trunks, the prime minister, laughing in triumph, sang out:

"Thanks for coming — It gives everybody a good chance to see your stupidity on display."

Washington Calling

Prescription for Disaster Concocted in South States

By MARQUIS CHILDS

AT the rate of a half-million a year the migration of poor, half-educated, almost-illiterate Negroes from the south to the north is continuing. This ongoing movement of poverty and misery into the crowded and decaying ghettos makes just about everything said in the presidential campaign thus far on the dilemma of the cities so much empty rhetoric.

To talk about rebuilding the slums, whether by private enterprise or by government or by a combination of the two, is like promising to bail out a boat with a cup when water is pouring in through great fissures in the hull. As fast as the slums are rehabilitated new slums will be created.

In the view of those who have looked at the magnitude of the problem this would be no more than a beginning. Only a radical system of land tenure and land use, written into a broad federal statute, could bring a sufficient change. And any candidate proposing such a radical goal would have to write off delegates in the powerful agricultural states and particularly in the South and Southwest.

A kind of interlocking dictatorship between the officials of the vast bureaucracy of the agriculture department and the congressional committees controlling policy and appropriations for agriculture exercises tight control. For the big operators it is a highly profitable arrangement, as presumably it is also for the members of Congress who make sure that the treasury is tapped for the necessary appropriations.

A table in Hunger USA shows the amounts paid out to the big owners in districts represented by key members of agricultural committees. Plantation owners in the Second District in Mississippi got $23,563,554 in one year.

Their representative is Jamie L. Whitten, chairman of the agriculture subcommittee of appropriations. In that district 59.1 percent of the population lives in poverty while the beneficiaries of the federal subsidy were three-tenths of 1 percent.

This same extraordinary discrepancy between the big cheques for the few and poverty and hunger of the many runs through state after state. It is a prescription for disaster.

In the High Savoy

Annecy Was an Oasis Of Gas—and Loyalty

By ROY BRUNTON from Annecy, France

THREE days ago in the High Savoy area was invaded recently by tourists, mostly West German and Dutch. The news that gas stations were working normally had an effect like the opening of flood gates. Hundreds of hold-downers who had been marking time in Switzerland have headed across the frontier to the South and Southwest.

A kind of interlocking dictatorship between the officials of the number of workers and employees on strike in the High Savoy department numbered 28,000 out of a total of 90,000. Over the past few days 15,000 of them—mostly in small and medium-sized enterprises—have gone back.

"We are lucky maybe in having our university in the department," an official at the prefecture said. "Our students are all in Lyons and Grenoble. Our relations with union leaders are excellent."

Outside in the bright sunshine by the blue lake thousands of tourists are streaming into Annecy. The result, as Hunger USA suggests, can be catastrophic.

"Gasoline supplies have in fact been normal throughout the national crisis, apart from an order by the prefecture that motorists could only fill their tanks, and not take away extra in jerrycans.

'It's Just Like Talking To Someone on Moon'

From UPI, AP

"It is like talking to someone on the moon!" That's how District Attorney Evelle Younger Friday described conversation with Sirhan Sirhan, 24, a year-old, accused assassin of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Younger, a former FBI agent, said all conversation between his assistants and Sirhan had been one-sided. Younger himself had not talked to Sirhan.

Extensive security measures were under way at the Los Angeles county jail as a result of telephones threatening Sirhan, but Younger expressed concern for future court proceedings.

"There are some people in the world who will want to make our country and our system of justice look bad," he said. "Anything that is said in connection with this case will be scrutinized by politicians all over the world."

Sirhan, meanwhile, has asked for two books written by leaders in the theosophical movement — a body of thought claiming special knowledge of divine wisdom.

He asked his jailers for The Secret Doctrine by Helena Petrovna Blavatsky, and Talks on "At the Feet of the Master" by C. W. Leadbeater.

Younger made it clear he planned to avoid any incidents such as the aftermath of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas in 1963. Accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was gunned down by gambler Jack Ruby who later died of cancer.

The security for Sirhan has been so tight since the Wednesday shooting of the senator only a few people have seen the swarthy youth who came to this country 11 years ago from Jordan.

Sirhan, meanwhile, has asked for two books written by leaders in the theosophical movement — a body of thought claiming special knowledge of divine wisdom.

He asked his jailers for The Secret Doctrine by Helena Petrovna Blavatsky, and Talks on "At the Feet of the Master" by C. W. Leadbeater.

Madam Blavatsky, co-founder in 1875 of the Theosophical Society, claimed a secret doctrine had been transmitted through the ages by "adepts" of "mahatmas" and they organized the society to make this "divine wisdom" available to all humanity.

Madame Blavatsky and other theosophists looked on India as the source of all wisdom, and most theosophists eschewed the Indian doctrine of reincarnation.

The final resting place of Robert Kennedy had still not been selected by the family Friday evening. It was certain to be within the 3.2 acre area set aside at Arlington cemetery as a memorial to John Kennedy, but it had not been decided whether the casket should be placed in the 18-by-30 foot stone-covered plot which bears the graves of President Kennedy and two of his children: Patrick, who died in infancy, and a baby girl who was still-born.

Just before pulling into Union Station in Washington, the train will be split into two sections. The first, will carry officials, guests and newsmen. The second will carry the casket and members of the immediate family.

The body will be transferred to a hearse by six navy pallbearers. Robert Kennedy was an enlisted man in the navy aboard the destroyer Joseph Kennedy Jr., named after his oldest brother, during the Second World War.

A choir will sing on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial when the cortège passes there.

Inevitably, memories will be revived of the salient state funeral of John Kennedy on Nov. 25, 1963 when a riderless horse was followed by 13 members of royal families, 16 presidents and heads of states, 38 foreign ministers, seven heads of national legislatures and six defense ministers and military chiefs.

Robert Kennedy's burial will not be that elaborate but attendance by most of his colleagues in the senate and his rivals for the presidency and by representatives of most of the 113 nations which maintain diplomatic missions in Washington was evidence of the esteem in which he was held, in America and around the world. Former Prime Minister Pearson will head Canada's delegation.

About 700 of the mourners will accompany the body on the special train which is scheduled to arrive in Washington's Union Station at 4:30 p.m. EDT.

There the casket will be transferred to a hearse, which will be followed by an automobile procession.

Rev. Ralph Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and leader of the Poor People's March, said he would represent his followers at the burial but no one else from Resurrection City will attend. "We certainly don't want to invade the privacy of a family that has befriended us so often over the years," he said.

Kennedy Worker Overheard:

We Can Get Him Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — Los Angeles police have received "literally hundreds of tips" that Sen. Robert Kennedy was the victim of a conspiracy, not a lone assassin, it was learned Friday.

"We're running down every scrap of this information," said a top police spokesman. "We'd be silly if we didn't."

But, he added, police have not retreated an iota from their earlier conviction that Sirhan Sirhan, the man in custody, acted alone.

"All evidence, despite the host of tips we're receiving, points to a lone assassin," he said.

However, investigators are discarding no leads, no matter how frivolous they appear on the surface.

Some they are pursuing with a vigor that embellishes them with a credibility they may not deserve.

The Uncertain Aftermath

Humphrey-Kennedy Slate?

From AP, UPI

Other developments in the aftermath of the Kennedy assassination:

• Maryland Democratic Representative Clarence Long said he has urged Vice-President Humphrey to invite Senator Edward Kennedy to become his running mate in the 1968 presidential election.

• Humphrey advised rival Eugene McCarthy he is suspending campaign activities for "several weeks."

One of these, for instance, concerns a story told by a water geologist just returned to the United States after working 5½ years for the Saudi Arabian ministry of agriculture.

Wood said he speaks and understands five Arabic dialects, including the one in which the trio talked.

He said the three reappeared at the headquarters Monday night, but that he dismissed the conversation until he saw a photograph of Sirhan on Wednesday after the fatal shooting.

At first the trio spoke in English, said Wood, who identified himself as a volunteer campaign worker for the senator.

When they switched to Arabic, using a Jordanian dialect, said Wood, he overheard one say:

"He won't be in the hotel tomorrow (Monday) night, but Hagen said.

Police Inspector Pete Hagen confirmed Wood had been questioned about the conversation.

He said officers had no reason to doubt Wood's sincerity, but "put no credence" in the story as far as its being a statement of a conspiracy.

The statements could have been made, but interpreted out of context and totally irrelevant to the murder, Hagen said.

Troubled SFU Seeking Fourth Leader

BURNABY (CP) — Faculty demands, placed president Patrick McTaggart Cowan by indefinite leave of absence. The student council and the faculty at Simon Fraser, which had about 5,800 students last term and expects some 7,200 for the fall session, will each set up five-man committees to search for a new acting president.

At a meeting Friday, student council voted to set up a committee to work with a similar faculty committee to search for a new acting president.

The meeting also decided to set up a second committee to spell out clauses students would like in a proposed new British Columbia universities act.

NEAR NORMAL
Meanwhile, the trouble-wracked campus on Burnaby Mountain in this Vancouver suburb returned to near-normal Friday following more than a week of student protests and marathon faculty huddles.

All but a few of the 2,700 students attending the summer term under Simon Fraser's trimester system were back in classes.

The holdouts were a group of about 30 married students and a number of their children who occupied the university boardroom and refused to budge despite pleas from university officials and fellow students.

CHILD CARE
The group, which took over the boardroom about midnight Thursday, said the sit-in stressed the need for a child care centre on campus.

In the room, a large picture of chancellor Gordon Strum was turned to the wall. Scrawled on the back was: "God is dead."

The present temporary acting president, Archibald MacPherson, whose office adjoins the boardroom, said the students didn't bother him and could stay as long as they behaved.

DEAN OF ARTS
Dr. MacPherson, head of the geography department and dean of arts, is the third person to occupy the president's chair.

He took over Tuesday, succeeding Dr. John Ellis, who resigned to make way for him. Dr. Ellis had taken over May 31 when the board of governors, yielding to faculty and student

Victorian's Son Dies in Vietnam

A Victoria couple this week received word of the death of their son while fighting with the American army in Vietnam.

Mark Collins, the 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester P. Collins, 1150 Rockland, and formerly of Columbia City, died May 21, when he dismounted from a vehicle and was hit by fragments from an enemy mine that was detonated by another military vehicle.

He was a member of the Fourth Cavalry division of the U.S. Army and had been recommended for the combat infantryman's badge and at least two bronze star medals for valor.

With the rank of Specialist Four, he interrupted his college education to enter the armed forces in January, 1967, and had been in Vietnam since last June. He had planned to return to college and complete his course in marine geology.

Courtroom Parade

Argument Irks Magistrate

Peter Holbrook almost talked himself into a longer jail term after he was sentenced on a theft charge Friday by Magistrate William Ostler in Central Magistrate's Court.

The magistrate sentenced Holbrook, 41, of Burnaby, to one day in jail and fined him $150 or a month in jail, the fine payable forthwith. He was convicted last week of theft over $50.

TIME TO PAY

Holbrook asked the magistrate for time to pay, adding that he had already spent 13 days in jail.

Magistrate Ostler replied: "You are fortunate you did not get a longer jail sentence. If you keep arguing with me, you might get it."

QUICK EXIT

Holbrook left the court immediately.

Court was told last week Holbrook used a camera valued at $339 as security for $20 and $30 loans. The cameras belonged to Harry Bos with whom Holbrook was sharing a room and Bos did not give him permission to take the camera.

A young woman testified she was kicked in the stomach by Noreen Hesjedal when she was three months pregnant, and had to spend three days in hospital.

Miss Hesjedal, who was living Manchester address at about 6 a.m. and the two argued.

Christine Green, 763 Goldstream, was remanded on bail to June 17 for a pre-sentence report and sentence when she pleaded guilty to shoplifting.

Court was told that Mrs. Green stole goods worth $28.72 from Woodswood Thursday. Magistrate Ostler released her on bail when she said she had five children.

Consecutive jail terms of 21 days for common assault and seven days for causing a disturbance by being drunk were given Wayne Lofthouse, 2615 Spring.

The sentences will begin at the expiration of the 30-day term given Lofthouse Monday for a breach of probation. Court was told Lofthouse assaulted his common-law wife April 2 and on May 22 was found by police on his hands and knees at Yates and Government, trying to stand up. He was drunk.

Two men were each fined $350 and had their licences suspended when they pleaded guilty to impaired driving. Roy Miller, 132 Wildwood, drove on Esquimalt Road May 28 without headlights, and Maxwell Norrish, 1955 Foul Bay, was involved in an accident May 30 at Shelburne and Garnet.

Forests Easier On Crews

Firefighters in B.C. forests got a welcome respite this week when only 14 new fires were reported, the B.C. Forest Service said Friday.

The total of fires to date this year is 285 compared with 465 in the same period a year ago. Firefighting costs of $70,000 are running below the comparable figure of $100,000 last year.

The service said the fire hazard outlook for next week remains moderate.

New Plan for Needy

Free Doctors Still Available

Some 81,000 B.C. residents who hold medical cards which entitle them to free doctors' care will be transferred shortly to the B.C. Medical Plan with the government paying the premiums.

A provincial cabinet order Friday terminated the 19-year agreement with the Canadian Medical Association under which coverages was provided for welfare cases, needy old age pensioners and the disabled.

DAY BEFORE

The present agreement ends June 30, the day before national medicare comes into effect here, and officials said an increased range of benefits will be available under the provincially subsidized B.C. Medical Plan, already licensed as a carrier for the Ottawa scheme.

The old agreement with the doctors provided coverage for those who received benefits under the Blind Persons Allowance Act, Old Age assistance Act, Old Age Security Act, Protection of Children Act, and the Social Assistance Act.

The provincial welfare department paid the $30 annual premium for each person covered under the CMA agreement.

NOT SET

A spokesman for the department said Friday it will continue to pay premiums under the new arrangement but added that the amounts involved haven't been set. Doctors, however, will get more for their services under the new arrangement.

The provincially-operated B.C. Medical Plan has a double subsidy system. There is a stabilization fund, from general revenues, used to maintain the premiums of $5 a month single, $10 for a couple and $12.50 for a family.

Additional subsidies are paid in the case of those in the low income groups.

Ottawa Men Here

Medicare Finances Hashed, Rehashed

Provincial authorities are keeping a tight-lipped silence on the results of discussions with Ottawa officials which took place here this week about the national medicare scheme which comes into effect July 1.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who is responsible for the operation of medicare in B.C., said provincial and federal representatives met Wednesday and Thursday to discuss financial implications of the national scheme.

However, the minister would only say that the results of the talks are now being studied and declined to give any indication of progress.

Mr. Black also met Thursday with Alberta Health Minister Donovan Ross who wanted to know how province's own medicare plan might fit federal requirements as part of the national plan. There are similarities between the Alberta and B.C. plans, Mr. Black said, and the Alberta minister has now returned to study his findings.

Home Kidney Machines Given B.C. Backing

The B.C. cabinet Friday provided $250,000 for the installation of home treatment units for patients suffering from chronic kidney ailments.

The service, announced earlier this spring, is expected to begin shortly in Victoria and Vancouver.

The money will be spent on installation of portable haemodialysis units in patient's homes and training them to use the equipment. A provincial committee of doctors decides who is entitled to home dialysis units and those selected in Victoria, officials said, may have to acquire the necessary skills at a training centre to be established in Vancouver.

CFL Change Gives Break To Canadians

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian football players got a break Friday when the Canadian Football League amended its bylaws to allow non-imports the same rights as imports in five-day trials with CFL clubs.

Last season, only American players were allowed a five-day trial after the regular season started, leaving a lot of Canadian talent unemployed.

In addition, a player may be signed as a free agent after Oct.

15 and be eligible to play even though he may have played for another CFL club earlier in the season. Previously, such a player could not play if signed after Oct. 15.

A player leaving training camp must be taken off a club roster and either placed on waivers, added to the retired list or suspended if he fails to return within 48 hours.

RESOLVE PROBLEM

The league also ruled that a club accepting a player on waivers must accept all obligations of his existing contract. A player placed on waivers within 48 hours before a game must be paid for that game by the club putting him on waivers.

Earlier, the league's general managers finally resolved the 1968 schedule with 16 games in the Western conference and 14 in the east. CFL commissioner Jake Gaudaur hinted that things could change in 1970.

Vicettes Face Test On Sunday

Molson's Vicettes of the Lower Island Senior Women's Softball League meet O'Keefes of the Vancouver Women's Softball League Sunday at Heywood Avenue Park in a doubleheader at 1:30 and 6:30 p.m.

The games are expected to be the toughest of the season for Vicettes, who have lost two straight games to Queen's Own Rifles in their last league Thursday at Bullock Park, 7-4.

Canada Seeks Improvement In Calibre of Wrestling

By JIM REID

Victoria's man-on-the-street may not be aware of it but wrestling — amateur wrestling, that is — is a good spectator sport, an excellent conditioner, and has received unique recognition from Canada's physical fitness council.

Not only that, it is the fastest growing participant sport in the United States and Canada.

Authority on the subject is Bill Smith, 39-year-old athletic director of the Olympic Club of San Francisco who is spending the weekend in Victoria.

OLYMPIC WINNER

Smith won a gold medal for the United States in the heavyweight division of the 1952 Olympics, is a three-time national AAU champion and a two-time U.S. collegiate champion.

At present, he is on a 10-month tour of duty with the wrestling division of Canada's amateur athletic union, conducting clinics for wrestlers, coaches and officials across the nation.

The unique recognition accorded wrestling by the physical fitness council is in the form of a grant which made it possible for Canada to engage the services of an expert from another country to co-ordinate coaching methods and improve standards. Wrestling is the first sport to attract such a grant.

Smith is high in his praise of Canadian wrestling officials who adopted the present approach to the problem of raising the calibre of wrestling.

"If the United States were to assume such an approach, it would be the No. 1 nation of the world in wrestling within five years," he said here Friday.

As it is, United States ranks sifth behind Turkey, Russia, Japan and Bulgaria in that order.

Canada is lagging internationally only because of the lack of competition of international calibre, Smith says. But the situation is not so serious that it cannot be corrected by programs such as the one presently underway.

Particular effort is being given to promoting wrestling in the schools and several athletic directors from Island schools and school districts are attending the Victoria clinic.

INEXPENSIVE SPORT

A wrestling program is relatively inexpensive to institute but doesn't always meet with favor, particularly from the mothers of youths who are interested in giving it a try.

"They are inclined to think of wrestling as the type they see on television," Smith points out.

He doesn't suggest that pro wrestling's image is damaging to amateur wrestling but points out that "we don't go for blood."

The Victoria clinic, at Royal Roads, opened Friday night and continues today and Sunday with sessions from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Dam-Busting Innovator Knighted in Honors List

LONDON (CP) — Two prominent figures in Britain's newspaper world, a pioneer aeronautics inventor and the head of the giant Rio-Tinto Zinc Corp. are raised to high rank in the Queen's birthday honors list published today.

Thomas Blackburn, lately chairman and managing director of Beaverbrook Newspaper Ltd., is made knight bachelor, while Sir Geoffrey Crowther, chairman of The Economist Newspaper Ltd., becomes a life baron.

Barnes Wallis, 80-year-old inventor of the swing-wing principle and the famous bouncing bomb that destroyed vital German dams in 1943, becomes a knight in the 25th anniversary year of the "Dambusters" raid, in which several Canadian aces took part. Wallis now is chief of aeronautical research and development at British Aircraft Corp., co-builders of the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic passenger aircraft.

Outdoor Chess Proposed

Chess players would enjoy their game more if they played it outside during the summer months, Victoria chess enthusiast John Kenny suggested Friday.

"Many young people are now playing this fascinating game," said Mr. Kenny.

* * *

"Beacon Hill Park behind the children's playground is one good place to play. Oak Bay, Esquimalt, and Saanich have their own fine parks which also can be used."

At present there are two chess clubs in Victoria: the Victoria Chess Club, meeting Tuesday evenings at Newstead Hall on Fort Street, and Silver Threads Chess Club, Saturdays at Senior Citizens' Activity Centre, Centennial Square.

JUNIOR MINISTERS

The Prime Minister's list, covering the British awards, was shorter than the New Year's honors list, totalling 686 names compared with 702.

Women gained a larger share of honors, with 135 awards compared with 113 at the new year.

The number of life peers—five—was the same.

The Queen's list also knighted David Huddle, director of the Rolls Royce aero-engine division, for his efforts to boost the economy. An OBE was granted to Lionel Rose, 21, an Australian aborigine who won the world heavyweight title in February.

WIDOW, TOO
The widow of Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt was made a Dame and Sadler's Wells Theatre director Stephen Ariens was made a CBE.

Eighteen people received awards for outstanding service in fighting the recent foot and mouth epidemic. And Norman MacLean, 70, postmaster of the Isle of Scapa, won the British Empire Medal for "risking life and limb to deliver the mail safely."

Consumer Index Up Again

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's consumer price index increased by 0.1 per cent in April to 154.2 at May 1, the Bureau of Statistics said Friday.

The figure is 4.1 per cent higher than in May of last year. Lower prices for food and clothing were more than outweighed in April by higher costs for tobacco, alcohol, recreation, transportation, housing and health.

Margarines

Oil Content Ruling Introduced

OTTAWA (CP) — The drug and food directorate has introduced new label regulations to help consumers to tell which margarines and oils have a high content of polyunsaturates and a low content of saturates, its consumer division announced.

Patrick Gordon Walker, former foreign secretary and education minister in the Wilson administration, is the only Companion of Honor in the list.

Others receiving life peerages which carry the title of baron but are not hereditary—are:

Dr. Thomas Balogh, Hungarian-born, Oxford-trained economist who served as economic adviser to the Wilson cabinet 1964-67; Sir William Rushton Black, chairman of the National Research Development Corp. and former chief of Leyland Motor Corp.; Prof. William Evans, head of the geology department at Nottingham University and John Henry Jacques, chairman of the Portsmouth cooperative union.

ADID CONTENT

The new regulations allow two statements on the label: The percentage by weight of the polyunsaturated fatty acid content and that of the saturated fatty acid content in the total fat composition.

These statements will appear on the label only if the chemical composition and the ratio of polyunsaturated to saturated fatty acid meet food and drug directorate requirements.

Drug Labels Change

More, Clear Directions

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal requirements were announced Friday stipulating directions drug manufacturers must supply with each package of drugs.

Dr. Ross Chapman, director-general of the federal food and drug directorate, issued the instructions with respect to drugs intended for humans and also informed the industry that must be supplied a standard reference material about new drugs.

NOT DEFINED Present drug regulations require manufacturers to supply adequate directions for use without further defining the terms.

The directorate originally intended elaborating on the definition in additional regulations but has decided instead to advise all segments of the industry of how these words will be interpreted.

Manufacturers must put on inner and outer labels any necessary cautions and warnings for proper use of the drug; indications for the drug's use; an indication of the administration, such as by mouth or injection; and the recommended single and daily dosage.

DRUG KINDS These requirements apply to prescription and non-prescription drugs.

If the label has insufficient room for all the information, it must be supplied in a package insert.

Deadline for this information on the market before that date, or the next printing of labels after that date but not later than Sept. 1, 1969.

Drugs that reach the market after Sept. 1, 1969, and are classified as new drugs must supply the same information plus a statement that the standard reference material about the drug is available to doctors and druggists on request.

This standard reference material must be supplied with applications for directorate clearance of all new drugs.

DELAPLANE

Tips
Off

Airlines have only missed once on getting my baggage on the plane with me. But I flew all the way to an important story in Norway and forgot to bring my typewriter. Flew to London for a formal dinner with all my social climbing irons. Except, I forgot the tuxedo pants. From such disasters, I worked out a procedure. I set up a flight bag a week in advance and drop things into it as I think of them. Passport and tickets, Passette flashlight. (It's easier to stumble around a strange hotel room in the dark.) Swiss Army knife. (With the bottle opener and corkscrew for roadside lunches.) Rubber bottle stopper. (European bottled water rarely has a cork.)

* * *

"Would we have any problem getting a good English-speaking doctor anywhere in Europe?"

Not in the big cities. You should get one through your hotel, the airline, or a Canadian Consul.

What do you think about two boys (high school age) who want to hitchhike in Mexico?"

I never see anybody hitchhiking in Mexico. So I figure it's rough going. Maybe Mexicans don't pick them up. And North Americans are a little nervous in a strange country. Buses are cheap in Mexico. That would be my idea.

* * *

"We have thought of spending some time in Mexico. We are retired. Is it possible for me to go into real estate business there?"

You have to live there five years on a resident immigrant basis before you are allowed to work. Or you can work immediately at your own business if you invest $16,000 in it.

"Will my hair dryer work on a cruise ship?"

You'll have to ask the shipping line. Last ship I was on had a notice posted saying not to use ANY electrical equipment.

You know all these ships have a beauty parlor. And book ALL your appointments the first day. On special nights — the Captain's dinner — every woman on board wants to get her hair done. By night, everyone's so mad they aren't speaking to each other.

"I'm going away present. I've heard of a leather case that carries everything. Passport, tickets, baggage checks, money, travellers cheques . . ."

I think this is a good way to lose everything. ALL at once in one package.

* * *

"We like a little coffee in our hotel room at night. There's something you buy to heat it with . . ."

It's a small immersion coil. Works on any current — and has some warming on use that makes me think you could get a roaring shock. (However, I've used them a lot and never got a jolt.) Many hardware stores have them. Travel departments in department stores.

Be sure to get an adapter plug to fit European outlets. It snaps on the end of the North American-type plug.

Street Scene

Victoria's famous flower baskets — 675 of them — will be hung next week, city parks administrator Herbert Warren said Friday.

This will be the 23rd year for the traditional floral decorations which have been part of the city's downtown summer scene since it celebrated the 75th anniversary of incorporation in 1897.

Over the years the baskets have been part of the tourist image of Victoria and have been featured in a number of give-away gadgets designed to publicize the city.

PROPER WEATHER

Mr. Warren said the baskets should make a particularly good show this summer because the cool weather has slowed up blossoming.

The administrator added that flower baskets are not infrequently used in European cities to decorate city streets but the practice is not common on North America. Several Canadian and United States cities have tried to emulate the local display but usually fail to get the showing because of climate.

TRUCK JOB

The baskets are maintained by one man who uses a tank truck. He waters the baskets as he drives along the curb using an aluminum pipe shaped like a shepherd's crook.

The work is done between the hours of 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. and a liquid fertilizer is applied every two weeks.

GREENHOUSE START

The baskets are larger than normal and weigh up to 40 pounds when wet. One of the secrets of his success, says Mr. Warren, is the use of an aluminum wash basin at the bottom of each basket which is always kept full of water.

The baskets are prepared in the parks department greenhouse during late April and hung from early June to late October.

Many kinds of flowers have been tried in the baskets and several conventional kinds discarded in favor of the sort now grown which include petunias, lobelias, nasturtiums, trailing nepeta, schizanthus, tagetes and geranium.

Most of the species are grown from seed.

Cost per basket works out to something more than $8 for plants, soil and labor plus about $4 for cost of basket and an additional $7 for maintenance.

Kidnap Trial Affected By Call to Magistrate?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrate Les Bewley said Thursday morning of Vancouver socialite he received a telephone call from Dallis Boultbee.

He made the remark in magistrate's court while hearing an application for a $5,000 reduction in the $15,000 bail he set for one of the accused William Godfrey, 53, of Coquitlam, currently free on $15,000 bail. He and Rediac, 37, an unemployed carpenter.

ON BAIL

The other defendant, Charles William Godfrey, 53, of Coquitlam, is currently free on $15,000 bail. He and Rediac, of Port Moody, are charged with kidnapping.

Magistrate Bewley said he intended to consider the application and prosecutor Al Cliffe asked for a two-day adjournment to determine whether the defence intended to seek a preliminary hearing and election of trial.

RAIL CONNECTION

At this point, the magistrate said: "I received a telephone call from someone in connection with bail I had set earlier in this case."

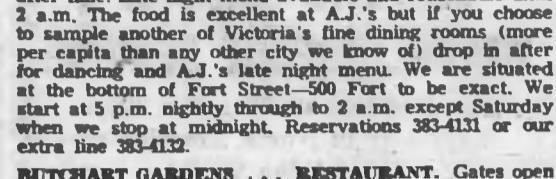

"I hasten to add that it was someone not connected with the (accused). Now there is a question in my mind as to whether this has put me in a position where I am not going to be able to be fair to both sides in this case as a result of this phone call."

He gave no details of the call.

NO KNOWLEDGE

The magistrate told Edward Ormheim, lawyer for Rediac, his reference to the telephone call did not relate to his client but his concern related to the crown case. He said it was apparent Mr. Ormheim had no knowledge of the telephone call.

The magistrate agreed to a two-day adjournment to consider how the case should proceed.

The Roar of the Greasepaint

Bastion Musical Highly Intriguing

By BERT BINNY

The current Bastion Theatre production at the McPherson Playhouse, a musical with a long title, has at least one rather peculiar recommendation.

The Roar of the Greasepaint: the Smell of the Crowd, while obviously allegorical, is sometimes difficult to understand. It offers a variety of little mysteries, each capable of a variety of interpretations. This makes it highly intriguing: you can go home and argue about it for weeks.

EASY TO HEAR

Owen Foran as Sir does a bang-up job. He has caught the character and plays it excellently. Above all he is easy to hear—clear as a bell way back in row S. His musical items are most acceptable.

There will be differences of opinion as to the success of Harry Hill as Cocky but he does not seem to fit the part nor carry off as well as he did the role of Felix in The Odd Couple. His movement is excellent and he speaks clearly but there could be improvement in some of his singing.

BEST VOICE

The best bonafide singing of the whole evening came all too briefly in the second act when Dick Wood, as the Negro, sang Feeling Good.

Gini Leferve as the Kid didn't

FULL VALUE

Hilary Shelton as the Girl and Danny Christian as the Bully has even less to do but, here again, they both extracted full value from the parts.

There were eight Urchins, all dancers from the Wynne Shaw Studios. But they were also the singing chorus, probably a comparatively new experience for them.

HUGE ENERGY

They danced delightedly within the narrow confines of the stage, with the choreography given them. They also reacted excellently to the moods set by the principals. They sang with huge energy but their words were often hard to distinguish.

Douglas to Postmen:

No Choice But Strike

By RICHARD JACKSON, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—In what he conceded was a frank bid for the civil service vote — powerful in the national capital, but less important in other parts of the country — New Democratic leader Douglas says he supports the "right" of postal workers to tie up the nation's mail service with a strike.

While such a strike would paralyze communication by mail alike in business, industry and the government's own public service, Douglas claims postal workers have no other choice.

There is no option, he charged, "because the government has refused to negotiate in good faith."

Grit Orange Fashion Forecast

Ten days before Prime Minister Trudeau's visit, Liberal party offices here already have teen-aged girls knocking on their doors.

Their wanting lengths of blazing orange cloth, out of which they can sew their own mini-skirts.

The Liberals have the special color and the patterns—it takes only two hours sewing time—but there is only enough material for 20 dresses. And it has all been taken.

"If they don't get a dress, they may get a kiss," said one party worker.

Campaign Roundup

• Maurice Sauve, minister of forestry and rural development, said Friday he'll run in the riding of St. Hyacinthe. The announcement came after Ron Diamond, candidate chosen at the constituency's Liberal nomination meeting, stepped aside in favor of Sauve. Sauve lost the nomination in Montreal. Gaultier.

• B.C. Liberals have asked campaign workers not to canvass Sunday in respect for the late Sen. Robert Kennedy.

• Prime Minister Trudeau plans election campaign visits to Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, in a four-day period next week.

• Montreal psychiatrist Dr. John Utwin predicts Trudeau may win increased support from young Canadians as a result of the Kennedy assassination. He said they see in Trudeau's image a chance to commit themselves to the martyred person in the U.S.

Resting in the capital from the rigors of the campaign trail, he called a press conference Friday afternoon to make this special election pitch for some 400,000 federal civil service votes, by far the biggest segment of them concentrated here in eight Ottawa-Hull constituencies.

Those 400,000 civil service votes are those only of heads of families in federal government service.

Count wives, relatives, friends, and this total vote would be immense — by far the largest single bloc of ballots in all the country.

SIMPLE FIGURES

This calculation on the simple arithmetical basis that the federal government is the nation's largest employer.

What, Douglas was asked, about the public interest in a strike shutting down such an essential service as the mail?

The "public interest" was, he said, was a two-way thing.

The interests of the public "of course must be served, but so too must be the interests of the postal workers."

In this press conference, Douglas made a plea for an increase in civil service pensions — but he chose to ignore the fact-of-government-life that a postal strike, while perhaps serving the interests of post office employees, would stop, among other mail, pension cheques.

AT SUPERMARKET

Postal workers, insisted the New Democratic leader, had the "right to withdraw their services just the same as the milkman or breadman."

He refused to see that mail service was a government "monopoly," in that if the post office doesn't collect, sort and deliver the mail, nobody does . . . and that if the milkman goes on strike, milk may be purchased at the supermarket or any nearby corner store.

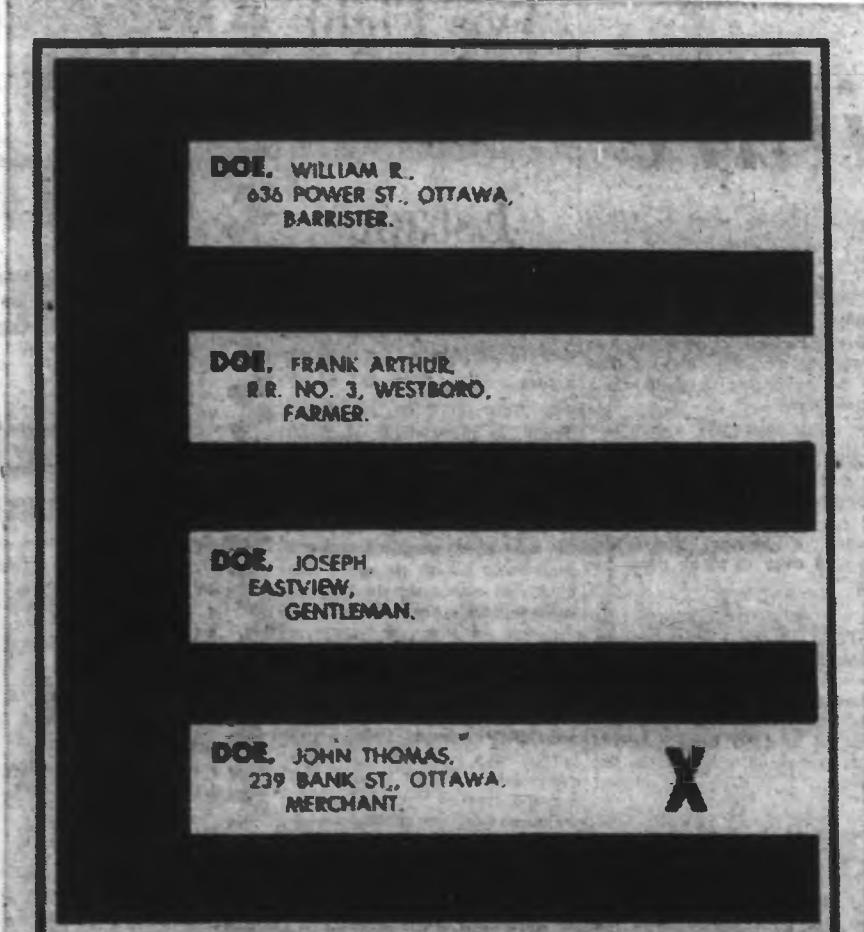

The former Pearson government passed civil service collective bargaining through Parliament, and since then there has been one wildcat strike and one threat headed off with a pay raise.

IN MAH

Currently, the postal unions are threatening a strike — the ballots now are in the mail — around June 25, election day.

There are hints, entirely unofficial for purposes of attribution, that if a strike does shut down postal service, Parliament may be recalled on an emergency basis.

It takes 28 days to return the election writs — the official confirmation of the election results — but in such circumstances as a postal paralysis, it could be done in 14 days. This still would leave Canada without mail service for two weeks.

Simple X Will Do

Names in alphabetic order and no reference to party affiliation are two characteristics of ballot that will be used in June 25 election. Sample also shows how ballot should be marked—no other method is accepted. Voters in each of the two Greater Victoria ridings probably will have choice of four candidates.

Chatterton on Liberals:

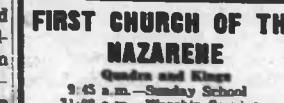

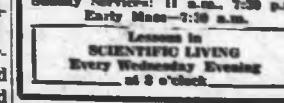

Election Theme Turns Fiscal

Liberals are changing their election tunes in midstream, switching from the theme of national unity to fiscal responsibility. George Chatterton told a meeting Friday.

"At the start of the campaign Liberals tried to distract people's attention from the real issues — inflation, slow economic growth, unemployment and the housing shortage — by raising the Quebec issue," said the Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative candidate.

"Now it seems they are changing their tune in midstream."

He said Jack Davis, minister without portfolio, now claims that the real issue is fiscal responsibility because of the Conserva-

Benson Would Quit Over Grit Pledges

OTTAWA (Special) — Finance Minister Benson Friday confirmed he is on the public record as promising to resign if any of his cabinet colleagues make election pledges involving big government expenditures while on the campaign trail.

At the same time he disclosed that all campaign speeches of the cabinet — including those of Prime Minister Trudeau — are being checked with him before they are made.

"If a speech contains a promise involving any big federal spending," claimed Benson, "out it goes."

The prime minister's Prairie pledge to increase farm loans on wheat would not involve heavy spending, he claimed, when asked about this particular promise, because "the only out-of-treasury cost would be the interest on the money."

Asked to relate the circumstances of his promise to resign if big money election promises were made, Benson gave this account of it.

"I was telling a small meeting of industrialists that we had been making few if any costly campaign promises, and then somebody wanted to know what I would do if any were made in the two weeks left before the election."

"And I told them that if that happened, I just wouldn't serve any longer as finance minister."

Benson had added this: "I hate to say it as a Liberal, but speaking as finance minister, I want to tell you it is time to be a small 'C' conservative in matters of the Canadian economy."

Canadians, including the government, he added, simply couldn't afford to be big spenders.

Finally, he objected to the current drive for wage parity with the United States, warning that it was economically dangerous to demand it without parity in productivity.

This parity in production couldn't be achieved, he believed, until there was an upgrading of Canadian industrial plant facilities and management techniques to American levels.

Kenneth and Shirley Birch

Victorian, Wife Taking Asia Missionary Posts

Native Victorian Kenneth Birch, who has just completed his middle year at Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, Calif., and his wife Shirley will leave July 15 for a year in Hong Kong as missionary interns.

Mr. Birch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Birch; 116 Simcoe, and Mrs. Birch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Booth, 2314 Victor.

She will assist her husband in teaching as well as being involved in nursing in Hong Kong.

He will return to Fuller in the fall of 1969 to prepare further for the ministry and mission work.

Christian Scientists

Spiritual Appeal Given World

The more than 7,000 Christian Scientists who attended this week's annual meeting of the church in Boston, Mass., included Miss Rachel Bogard, superintendent of Wayside House nursing home, 350 Foul Bay, which is operated by the church.

The meeting heard an appeal from the church's board of directors for all men to be spiritual builders in today's world of destructive upheaval and tremendous change.

Gordon Conner was elected president of the church for the coming year and Arthur Wuth is the new chairman of the board of directors.

Broadcast Body Sticks

To 24-Hour Blackout

OTTAWA (CP) — In the wake of a CBC decision to enforce a 48-hour ban on partisan political broadcasts before the June 25 federal election, the Canadian Radio-Television Commission has reaffirmed its stand that only a 24-hour blackout is necessary.

In a circular issued Friday, the CRTC repeated its intention to abide by the 24-hour ban stipulated in the new Broadcasting Act passed by Parliament this year. In effect, it also offered to take the blame if any station should be hauled into court for following its advice.

PRE-VOTE BAN

The situation surrounding the pre-vote broadcasting ban became muddled because of variance between the new Broadcasting Act and the Canada Elections Act.

The broadcasting legislation passed this year stipulates only a 24-hour blackout before election day. The electoral act still contains the old 48-hour ban.

The CRTC says it will stand by the new broadcasting regulation unless or until there is a court judgment saying it is in error.

ANY STATION

The circular said any broadcasting station that abides by the CRTC decision and is challenged "may plead that it permitted partisan political broadcasting on Sunday, June 23, 1968, pursuant to a decision of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, the lawful statutory authority over the Canadian broadcasting system."

The CRTC statement referred specifically to a circular sent by the CBC to its privately-owned affiliate stations last May 31.

A CBC spokesman said this communication advised the affiliates that the corporation had decided that it must abide by the longer blackout stipulated by the electoral act.

Legal opinion given to the CBC was that the new broadcasting legislation did not repeal or supersede the electoral act's requirement, the spokesman said. The CBC had decided that it must meet the longer ban required by the electoral act.

Five Clerics at One Service

Five ministers will take part in Sunday's evening service at First United Church, which the choir and congregations of First Baptist and Metropolitan United's church will attend.

The sermon will be by Rev. Dr. Kenneth MacMillan, general secretary of the Canadian Bible Society. Others taking part will be Rev. Raymond Tingley, secretary of the B.C. Bible Society; Rev. Benson Summers, who served the Bible Society in southern Saskatchewan for many years; Rev. John Watson, pastor of First Baptist Church, and Rev. A. E. King of Metropolitan United.

Dr. John Bell, an originator of family group therapy and assistant minister of First United Church here from 1937 to 1959, has been appointed director of the Mental Research Institute, with head offices in Palo Alto, Calif.

Gordon United

Education Centre Dedicated Sunday

Dedication of Gordon United Church's new Christian Education Centre, a structure completed largely by church members themselves, will take place at 3 p.m. Sunday on the site, directly behind the church proper on Goldstream Avenue in Langford.

Rev. A. G. MacLeod, past chairman of the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church, will conduct the service. Dedication will be by Dr. Stuart MacLeod of the Canadian Memorial Church, Vancouver, who is president of the B.C. Conference of the United Church.

Also taking part will be Rev. H. R. Whitmore of Garden City United Church, chairman of the Victoria Presbytery Home Mission lower level.

Vatican Vicar at Funeral

From UPI, AP

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul Friday named Cardinal Delli-Acqua, papal vicar for Rome and a friend of the Kennedy family, as his representative at the burial of the late Senator Robert Kennedy today.

He also sent telegrams to the senator's wife and President Johnson. The cable to Mrs. Kennedy offered sympathy, heartfelt prayers and "our paternal blessing." The one to Johnson read:

"Deeply saddened by the untimely and violent passing of Senator Robert Kennedy, we offer you our sincere condolences on the loss of an outstanding public servant, asking God to console, guard and bless you, your family, the government and the people of the United States."

TORONTO (CP) — The United Church of Canada is sending its 1,000,000 members a kit telling how they can put pressure on South Africa to end apartheid.

The kit recommends a boycott of South Africa products and lists by brand name fresh fruit, jams and marmalade, canned fish, fruit, canned meats, wines and tobacco. It includes a sample of protests and a petition to be sent to members of Parliament and the minister of external affairs.

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul is still undecided on the Roman Catholic Church's position on birth control, two years after a special study commission recommended the church end its ban on contraceptives. Vatican sources, who said recently a papal pronouncement on the issue was likely this summer, say the decision apparently has been delayed again.

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. — Rev. Franklin Clark Fry, who resigned one week ago as president of the Lutheran Church in America, has died of cancer at 67.

LONDON — The United Bible Societies, an interdenominational Protestant group, will cooperate with the Vatican in producing a Bible to be distributed in five languages. The venture to produce a text of the scriptures acceptable to all has the approval of Pope Paul.

NAPLES — A church court has begun to consider a presumed miracle attributed to the late Pope John XXIII. The ecclesiastical hearing is part of the long process involved in determining whether Pope John, who died five years ago Monday, should be enrolled among the saints of the church.

LONDON — An 80-foot spire, an exact replica of the original by Sir Christopher Wren which was destroyed by a bombing raid in 1940, has been fitted to 300-year-old St. James Church in Piccadilly. The new spire cost $100,000.

Missing
Sub's
Task Secret

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The ill-fated nuclear submarine Scorpion was on a secret mission when it last reported in 17 days ago south of the Azores, a submarine officer testified Friday.

Capt. Wallace Greene, commander of submarine division 62, told a navy court of inquiry that the attack sub — lost with a crew of 99 — was 27 miles off the course it would normally take across the Atlantic because it was carrying out a "classified assignment."

CLOSED SESSION

Greene would not elaborate on the nature of the mission in open session of the court, but added the sub was not off course due to a navigational error.

After Greene's brief comment on the sub's mission, the court went into closed session to hear more details of what the Scorpion was doing.

Asked later about the nature of the mission, the navy declined to comment.

NOT MECHANICAL

Earlier, the submarine officer disputed testimony that the Scorpion was plagued by mechanical difficulties. "I have no knowledge of any event or circumstance that I believe would have contributed to the loss of the Scorpion," Greene said.

Greene said the eight-year-old submarine was "fully ready for sea" when she departed on her voyage across the Atlantic.

He said the Scorpion had only minor problems with radio and navigational equipment which would not cause any concern. Greene also said "there was no leaking at all" around the propeller shaft as indicated earlier.

Czechs:

Defector Knew Plenty

PRAGUE (UPI) — Czech Maj.-Gen. Jan Sejna who defected to the United States last February was informed about "secret matters" and had "an excellent memory," an official report said here Friday.

The Czech army had to make "a number of changes" to avoid ill-effects caused by Sejna's defection, the report added. It was the first official report on Sejna's defection.

FIRST STUDY

The report was presented as a "first preliminary study" by a government-installed special commission and carried by the Czech television Friday.

Informed sources said it has been already studied at the recent central committee plenary session before it was made public in the television east.

SECRET STUFF

"It was impossible to establish exactly how much Sejna knew when he defected," the report said. "But we know he was informed about several secret matters and had an excellent memory."

The report said Sejna "had a vast knowledge on personal details of several top ranking people including high party officials."

The army had to make a number of changes in order to avoid any consequences of Sejna's defection," it added.

Garden Notes

Stake for Safety

By M. V. CHESNUT

The need for staking and tying is most pressing at this time of the year, and while it is one of the most uninteresting and boring chores in gardening, it can be neglected only at the risk of disaster. A spell of calm, balmy weather may lull the novice gardener into a false sense of security; high winds and driving rain can come along at any minute to make a shambles of your plants.

At this season of the year, growth is lush and rather soft in the flower borders. Dahlias, border chrysanthemums, the taller perennial asters and such plants all need some support, together with the taller annuals, for securely staked plants will come through the worst of our summer storms with only superficial damage, and will bloom again bravely up among them while they are still a little on the small side, with the tips of such branches broken inward, so the plants grow through and over them to render the support invisible at flowering time.

The taller single-stemmed or few-stemmed plants require a stake for each stem and a tie of some soft material. Strips of old nylon stockings are excellent, or you can buy Twinstems, a green plastic ribbon with a flexible wire imbedded, made specifically for plant-tying.

The stakes themselves may vary all the way from the stout, green-painted wooden type for tall dahlias down through bamboo canes of different sizes and lengths to the small sticks suitable for the China asters and stocks. Even these kinds must be held upright if their flowers are going to be fit for cutting.

For patches of annual flowers massed in their beds, I don't think anything works quite so well as the twigs tips of tree or shrub branches thrust in the ground here and there among the plants, of a suitable strength and of such a height as to be hidden at flowering time. I have seen long borders of such floppy annuals as clarkias, gomphrena and lavatera stand up to some wicked storms when so supported.

You wouldn't think the wind could cause much damage to trailing plants that hug the ground, but subjects such as vine marrows, squash, pumpkins and cucumbers can take quite a beating in a high wind. The leaves of these plants are large, catching the wind and shifting the vines on the ground so tender stems become bruised and cracked.

The trick here is to peg down the vines to the ground with giant "hairpins" made of bits of old wire. With legs eight or nine inches long, these can be pushed into the ground securely, immobilizing the vine. Use a peg about every two feet, inserting each one close to a leaf joint. Be careful not to injure the succulent stem, but make sure it is brought into firm contact with the soil.

There is an interesting secondary advantage to this pegging-down of vegetable vines. Quite often, such vines will push out new roots into the ground at each point of pegging, and with so many more "mouths" to absorb nutrients from the soil, such stem-rooted vines will always produce bigger and better crops.

New Patron of the Arts

I recently achieved new status in our block as a patron of the arts. Before, I was known merely as a big buyer of Girl Guide cookies.

Art is in. Not since the Renaissance have artists found so many sponsors.

Some collectors will pay up to $500,000 for an authentic

Most of us, of course, have to start small. I got into it quite by accident. I was working in the den the other day when the doorbell rang.

My wife answered it.

There was some talk at the door, then I heard her say

"Just a minute." I knew it was something she couldn't handle.

She looked into the den.

"It's Timmy," she said. "He wants to sell us a picture."

"Well," I said. "How much is it?"

"Ten cents."

"Is it any good?"

"Not very. I'm afraid I don't know. You're the one with all the pretensions about

"You're right," I agreed. "I better look at it."

I went to the door. The artist handed me the picture.

It appeared to be a tree.

Above the tree there was a scrawl like a ball of steel wool. Under the tree there was another scrawl.

It was drawn on lined school paper. The tree and the upper scrawl were in blue ink.

The lower scrawl was pencil.

"Very interesting," I said. I have found this phrase useful in such situations.

"It's 10 cents," he said.

"Yes. Well, I'm not sure it's worth 10 cents. It isn't very good, really."

He looked surprised.

"What's wrong?"

"What's this?" I asked, pointing to the scrawl over the tree.

"That's the sky."

"Oh, yes. And I suppose this is the ground."

"Yes."

"Why is the sky ink and the ground pencil?"

"The sky is blue," he explained.

"Well, the tree is blue, too.

Are trees blue?"

"Sometimes," he said. "We saw some slides at school, in art. There was a blue tree."

"Ah, yes. Picasso, most likely. He went through a blue period, you know."

He nodded.

"Anyways," I conceded,

"you don't have to draw things exactly the way they are in nature, do you? I sort of like the idea of a blue tree.

However, I'd like some birds in the picture. Some life. It's too, uh, stark looking."

He grabbed the picture. "I'll be right back," he said. He ran down the hall. In five minutes he was back.

"I drew some birds in," he said.

There were indeed four or five birds, flying, under the tree.

"How come the birds are so low?" I asked.

"It's, uh, perspective," he said. "They're supposed to be far off, in the distance. We learned that in art."

I got 10 cents out of my coin dish and bought the

"But I don't want you to think it's really good," I told him. "You've got a lot to learn."

"Well," my wife said when he left. "A patron of the arts."

"Who knows?" I said. "The kid may turn out to be another Da Vinci. That drawing could be worth a fortune someday. And it only cost a dime."

Old Team Back Again

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Sophia Loren co-stars with Marcello Mastroianni again — and that's always good box office news — in Giovanna, for September with their favorite director, Vittorio de Sica. Part of the picture will be made in Russia. Joe Levine had an interesting theory about why de Sica's Woman Times Seven with Shirley MacLaine was not a success. Woman Times Seven with Shirley MacLaine was not directed by someone who understood the language, he does not think in it."

Mel Ferrer lingered in Hollywood looking for his "Peter Pan." If only the clock could be turned back, Audrey Hepburn, his estranged wife, would be perfect.

Sergio Leone's follow up to "Once Upon a Time in the West" is Once Upon a Time in America — all about Chicago during prohibition. . . . Ho is Jean Paul Belmondo's first film in 18 months. And does he know that his ex-wife Eddie, is planning to marry again?

Tony Quinn was told to shave his head clean as a Vel Bryner, for his role in The Magus, he made them insure his hair re-growth for $2,000,000. Lloyd's of London sent their men to Spain to inspect Tony's locks because some times when a man shaves his head clean, it does not grow back again and if his crowning glory was to be sacrificed, Tony wanted a $2,000,000 balm.

Elizabeth Taylor introduces Mike Todd Junior as "my oldest son." Mike is 38. She is 36 and his stepmother . . . Fred Astaire's current film, The Midas Run, now shooting in Italy, will wind up at Buckingham Palace, in a big send-up of the Establishment. Outside of course . . . Henry Fonda's first meeting with Claudia Cardinale in their current film, show them quite nude. Is Henry competing with his daughter Jane?

The set of Wylie at Universal was closed while Gayle Hunnicutt did a scene in the altogether with Michael Sarrazin. "I'm not really nude" Gayle told me, as I didn't know. The studio has another picture for Gayle immediately following Wylie. "But I don't think I'll do it," she confided. What is most on her mind right now is finishing the present film and flying to Ireland where David Hemmings is working and waiting for her. It took a failed marriage and a false divorce to make them realize that they really do love each other. But would a real marriage spoil it and end in a real divorce?

Faye Dunaway must not make a habit of dying in her movies. She kicks the bucket in You and Me, playing a divorced American woman with only 10 days to live. Before she expires she finds bliss with Mastroianni.

The Duke of Bedford is always ready to add to his dual income and he is allowing Roger Moore to make part of his new movie at Woburn Abbey. Following which jolly Roger returns to his old Maverick stamping grounds and I do mean Hollywood, to make a film here.

SYDNEY HARRIS

It is not that people with a small sense of humor do not laugh a lot; it is that they laugh only at what others laugh at, and are as conventional and stay on too long (as Puritans in their dress).

Speaking of humor, comedians who stay on too long (as so many do), should inscribe on their dressing room mirrors the words of Francis Bacon: "He that is too much in anything, so that he giveth another the occasion of satiety, maketh himself cheap."

Those who blame the press for "publicizing" violence should reflect that mankind has always rewarded destruction with more fame than it has given construction; everyone knows that Nero burned Rome, but who knows the men who built it, who sustained it, and who enlarged it?

Trudy, Bert Score Aces At Uplands

It isn't often that a golfer can find the cup with a driver but Trudy Fedor did it on Thursday at Uplands Golf Club, getting her first hole in one on the 263-yard fourth hole.

Her tee shot landed on the green and the ball appeared to spin back into the cup. She was playing with Marjorie Sturz, Marion Edmison and Betty Stephenson.

It was one of two aces scored at Uplands Thursday. The other went to Bert Nees, who got his on the 135-yard 16th hole. Nees was playing with George Ford, Art Mawer and W. Horan.

Advice to Graduands:

'Have No Mercy On Politicians'

School days behind them, 1,223 high school students took a long look at themselves and the world they have to live in at recognition ceremonies Friday in five Greater Victoria schools.

And the world was painted a place of cold comfort by guest speakers who warned of violence, corruption, and revolt.

"I am conscious that my generation has not left you much to remember them kindly by," A.G. Coning, manager of Mayfair Shopping Plaza told the graduating class at Mount Douglas high school.

"The fact that you will experience great difficulty in moving from place to place because of discarded coal bags and old plastic bags is the least of your worries."

No Mercy

"Politicians, ministers of religion, and bird dogs work best when they are hungry and that goes for local aldermen too," Mr. Coning told the students as he urged them to call politicians to account for their actions and policies.

"Have no mercy on them; if they serve you for pay, see they give full value," he said.

"If they serve you out of a sense of duty, see that they perform that duty."

"Do not allow any elected representative in any field of government to think for one minute that his seat is safe, or that it will be kept warm for him," said Mr. Coning.

"In the United States, government has been allowed to weaken, and the country is being influenced unduly by the giant business corporations, the heads of the armed services and departments of government which are not called upon for public accounting in finance and policy."

Mass Horror

"As a result things have been allowed to happen in Vietnam so that future generations of Asiatines will not remember them for the food, clothing, textbooks and teachers which they supplied free, but for a chain of mass horror."

"We have developed mass murder into an art."

"We have perfected means to distort the minds of men."

"We have instituted, and practise openly—a system of cheating you out of value for your money, and among our greatest crimes is the fact that we have polluted with industrial and human waste those facilities which you could use for relaxation and recreation."

"We have allowed this to happen," continued Mr. Coning, "while our representatives have discussed very solemnly and at great length the best way of impounding people's household pets."

Sea Diet

He told the attentive students that in 50 years there will be a world food shortage, and they will be eating plankton. There will be a world water shortage, and they will drink water condensed from the sea.

As consolation the medical profession is confident that they will stay alive longer—perhaps long enough to see a shortage of plankton and sea water.

At Esquimalt high school the guest speaker was Mayor Ray Bryant.

He lashed out at the news media, and at what he called a sense of lawlessness in society today.

"We have witnessed only a few short days ago, the horrid results of lawlessness with the striking down of Senator Robert Kennedy," he said.

Society's Peril

"The constant emphasis and glorification of sensationalism and violence is playing a part in seriously weakening the fabric of the American Society."

He classified the movie, Bonnie and Clyde as an example of American blood-lust.

"Hero worship or glamorizing lawlessness is but one that you as the future public of North America will have to live with and somehow cope with," said the mayor.

There has been an intense breakdown in communications, particularly in the communications industry.

Rioting students in Europe and the U.S. are demonstrating "freedom to burn, freedom to loot, freedom to destroy and freedom from any social discipline," said Prof. Loft.

He said the logical conclusion is anarchy, followed quickly by authoritarianism.

A set of four characteristics for responsible citizens were listed by William Reid, assistant superintendent of education to Mount View students.

Trudeau Expects Mob at Mile 0

Prime Minister Trudeau will have two open air rallies when he campaigns in Victoria June 17, it was learned Friday.

One will be centred near the Mile 0 sign of the Trans-Canada Highway on the waterfront and the second will be at Victoria International Airport, before he flies to Edmonton.

Party sources would not confirm or deny the arrangements, which they said would have been announced by Liberal officials in Vancouver.

The prime minister's planned visit here June 2, subsequently cancelled, would have seen him address a rally in Memorial Arena, which has a seating capacity of about 8,000.

However, if the weather is good on the afternoon of Monday, June 17, he is likely to speak to many more than that.

Prime Minister Trudeau probably will arrive on the waterfront in a helicopter and, after the rally, travel in a convertible to the airport.

At the passenger terminal, the Liberals are arranging for bands to keep the crowd entertained until the prime minister arrives.

The visit is being set up so that the prime minister will be able to meet the people in both Greater Victoria ridings.

Grit Raps Tory Proposal For Housing Subsidies

The average taxpayer who owns his own home or lives in an apartment should not have to subsidize the housing costs of others, Liberal candidate David Anderson said Friday night.

"The person who is buying a $50,000 home in the Uplands should not expect any other member of society to help him pay the interest on the money he must borrow," he told a meeting in Jubilee Hall on Fraser Street.

Schools should open in the evenings for catch up courses in addition to present night school courses.

At Oak Bay high, University of Victoria history professor Alfred Loft told a class of nearly 400 that a lawless pursuit of freedom is self-defeating.

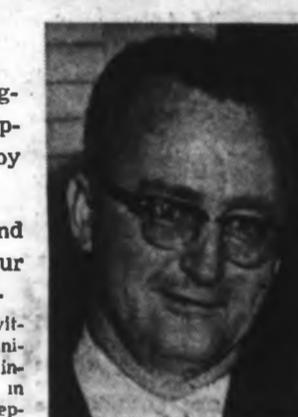

As consolation the medical profession is confident that they will stay alive longer—perhaps long enough to see a shortage of plankton and sea water.

He said if Conservative leader Robert Stanfield wanted to do more about consumer affairs, air pollution and housing, he should not be the first to complain when the civil service grows a little to keep pace."

Speaking to a rally at his campaign headquarters in Victoria riding, Liberal David Gross said there were problems in housing and interest rates but the government was shifting its emphasis toward allocating more money for low-income dwellings.

He also attacked the Conservatives for proposing policies which would increase the size of the civil service.

He said if Conservative leader Robert Stanfield wanted to do more about consumer affairs, air pollution and housing, he should not be the first to complain when the civil service grows a little to keep pace."

Hydrofoil Settling Down

Eight in a Row Without a Miss

By DON COLLINS

For the first time since it staggered rather uncertainly onto the nautical horizon a month ago, the hydrofoil Victoria seems to be settling down to a life of stability.

Or so its backers hope. "It's made eight regular runs in a row without a miss," explains William Niedermair of Seattle, president of Northwest Hydrofoil Lines.

Some of its early trips have been made with no more than 10 passengers, although it is capable of carrying 15.

Today it will carry its biggest load yet—40.

"Before people book for a trip they want to be sure the craft is going to leave as scheduled. We knew this and expected things to go as they have so far," said Mr. Niedermair.

Seen In Passing

Dennis Deacon

ago, it had operated on a sort of off-again-on-again basis, chiefly because of a misbehaving docking motor system.

And now that it is starting to show signs of regularity, the Victoria is also beginning to attract more customers.

Some of its early trips have been made with no more than 10 passengers, although it is capable of carrying 15.

Today it will carry its biggest load yet—40.

"Before people book for a trip they want to be sure the craft is going to leave as scheduled. We knew this and expected things to go as they have so far," said Mr. Niedermair.

He said the whole plan to have Indian participation in regional districts is the figment of some politician's imagination.

"Anyone who knows anything at all about our Indian reserves knows that we are far away from the day when we can enter into that kind of thing."

NOT PRACTICAL

NOTHING IN RETURN

"We don't get anything in return."

"They have to give us more indication that they are interested in providing us with a genuine service, where we will be getting the benefit, not something just pulled out of the hat—a vague statement of nothing."

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Some people have hobbies that come under the heading of arts and crafts. But hobbies can and do cover a wide range of study. Some people use a hobby purely for relaxation while others find theirs an all-absorbing interest.

Under the latter category comes James K. Nesbitt and his interest in the history of Victoria, plus his work for the preservation and restoration of Victoria's older buildings.

Jim Nesbitt was recently appointed by Ottawa as B.C. representative on the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

He is quite justly proud of this appointment. He is only the fourth person to represent B.C. since the board was set up nearly 50 years ago by Ottawa — the others were Judge F. W. Roway, Dr. Walter Sage and Dr. Margaret Ormby.

Although it doesn't necessarily always follow, Mr. Nesbitt's deep love for the

Sailing Schooner Master

His maternal grandparents, Capt. and Mrs. Michael O'Keefe came to Victoria in 1887 from Newfoundland. Capt. O'Keefe was master of sailing schooners out of Victoria to the coast of Japan and the Bering Sea.

Curiously, the first meeting of the Board Jim will attend this month will be on the Atlantic Coast — Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

Jim attended St. Louis College here and started his writing career on the Victoria Times. Later he became legislative correspondent for the now defunct Vancouver News-Herald. For the past 14 years he has been columnist on politics and history for the Vancouver Sun.

His political column, Under the Dome, appears in many of British Columbia's weekly newspapers and he is a regular contributor to The Daily Colonist weekend section where he was born comes quite naturally. His roots go back almost to the beginning.

Both his paternal and maternal grandparents were pioneer residents here.

His grandfather, Samuel Nesbitt, an Irishman, arrived in Victoria from California with the first great rush of miners heading for the Cariboo in 1858. He married Jane Anne Saunders who reached Victoria from Ireland in the famous shipwreck Tynemouth in September of 1862.

The Nesbitts were married in March, 1863, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons Sayward.

Reception Honors Convention Group

Associations of Canada, and their wives. From left are Mrs. Pearkes, Captain D. F. Mason, national president of the Association, Mrs. Mason, and Mr. Pearkes. — (Jim Ryan)

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes will present the awards of the Royal Commonwealth Society's essay contest in the Victoria Art Gallery today. Following the presentation His Honor and Mrs. Pearkes will attend a luncheon in the Empress Hotel to be given by the Royal Commonwealth Society.

W. H. Currie, vice-chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, will call on the lieutenant-governor Wednesday at Government House. His Honor will attend a late afternoon reception later that day at the Union Club. A. K. Poucette and W. H. Armstrong of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce will be hosts.

Simpsons Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simpson, 215 Henry Street, will be "at home" to their friends and relatives from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday, June 30, to mark the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. The couple was married in Regina, Sask., on July 3, 1918. They have two sons, Lloyd on Salt Spring Island, Bert in Nanaimo and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas (Verne) Parkin, Richmond, B.C.

She's probably forgotten all about this, but at that time her decision to become a librarian was based on the fact that librarians were the most highly paid women and had the longest holidays.

Dee and Tony Phillips were married in the East where she had gone to work as a librarian. They have done as much travelling as possible during holidays.

Dee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Lavole, live in Victoria. They didn't get back for the graduation but they are mighty proud parents.

Fred and Doris Ford are back again at their home on Senanus Drive. It was about ten years ago that Fred, who owned and published the Senanus Review, sold out and headed south.

Since that time the Fords have lived in Palm Springs

This time they say it is for keeps, but come winter and we'll see.

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

TORONTO (CP) — Women discriminate against men by denying them work as housekeepers, a Toronto business manager told the royal commission on the status of women Friday.

"Housework has for long set the pattern of job discrimination," said John Kaye, 47-year-old manager in an electrical firm. "It's a basic form of labor denied to men."

Kaye, who is married but has no children, said he was not suggesting that marital roles be reversed for all couples.

"Rather they should be interchangeable within limits and according to the particular needs.

"Many a woman breeds unhappiness and discontent for herself and her family as she washes her brains down the sink while her apathetic husband follows his allotted role managing an assembly line."

"His forte might well be as help-mate to his wife managing the washing machine and ironing board."

Kaye said many women use the domestic field of employment as a "safety net" job in case they fall in other fields.

As long as a woman unfairly preserves this basic job for herself she should not insist on work equality in other fields, he said.

New Musical Opens at McPherson

Among the many who attended opening night of The Roar of the Greasepaint, The Smell of the Crowd at the McPherson Theatre were R. A. Price, the producer, Mrs. Price, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKay and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sim—(Kinsman)

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Right now my head feels as if it will burst. My mother just left. I need to know what to do about her daily visits which leave me depressed, drained and half sick.

The minute Mother sits down she begins to report on the illnesses and tragedies of relatives, friends and neighbors. Every story she tells is like a movie. She has an eye and an ear for detail that is uncanny. Mother makes you feel every ache and pain of the person she is describing. She'd rather go to the hospital to see a sick person than go to a party.

Last month Mother attended seven funerals. (Only one was a relative.) Right now I am so down in the dumps I could die. I can do nothing to alleviate her hairdresser's agony (her small daughter is dying of leukemia). I can't help her neighbor whose only son lost both legs in Vietnam. Last week Mother awakened me at midnight to tell me about a car accident in which four people were killed. She had heard it on the radio. I didn't know the people and neither did she—but "Isn't it awful."

I love my mother and I don't want to be disrespectful, but I just can't listen anymore. Do I owe it to her? Would I be a bad daughter if I told her I didn't want to hear her daily reports on tragedy and death? Please advise me, Ann. — BLUER THAN BLUE

Dear Blue: Each of us knows someone who thoroughly enjoys being first with the bad news. When that person is your mother the problem becomes compounded because you cannot log off a mother as you would a pesty neighbor or a boring friend.

Tell Mary Sunshine her continuous recital of gloom and doom is making you ill and she'll just have to spare you. When she starts again tell her you'd prefer not to hear any more sad stories and then change the subject.

Dear Ann Landers: I've always had an odd feeling about Phi Beta Kappa keys dangling from watch chains. They seem to say, "Look at me. I am smart." (Worse yet, in my opinion, is the woman who wears her Phi Beta Kappa key on a chain around her neck.)

But what do you think about a 40-year-old man who wears his Phi Beta Kappa key as a lapel pin? Isn't this tasteless?

It really knocked me out. How about you? — GALATEA

Dear Gal: Corny, yes. But it doesn't knock me out. I'm mystified as to why you attach so much importance to it.

Confidential to This Time It's Real: It's natural for teenagers to want to learn from experience but divorce is one experience you can live without. If it's real it will still be real two years from now.

Wait.

Confidential to Don't Need Glasses: It sounds as if you don't need glasses because you drink straight from the bottle. Your letter contained a half-dozen contradictions and it even smelled of bourbon. Write again when you're sober, please, and I'll help you if I can.

Diamond Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bunce, married June 10, 1908, in Portage La Prairie, Man., celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary at home, 3316 Shelbourne Street, at an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday and Monday. Residents here for the past 25 years, Mr. and Mrs. Bunce have three sons, Cliff, Victoria; Ted, Wimborne, Alta.; and Gordon, Calgary, and a daughter, Mrs. Irvin (Ethel) Sherwood of Port Alberni.—(Kinsman)

That Working Girl No Longer a Girl

TORONTO (CP)— Ontario's average working girl is no longer a girl—she's about 37 years old and probably married. And the pattern could be the same across the country.

By Jack Tippit

NOW! by G.J.L.

DESIGNER'S MESSAGE: A spring into summer idea for those of you that loved the wide mesh hose of this winter! Paint your legs with one of the new bright colored leg make-ups (to match a dress or shoes) and then wear your wide mesh hose over it. Since most of the wide mesh hose were bought in white or black, you will create a "cool" two-colored effect perfect for the still fashion—important legs! Be sure the leg make-up is very dry before putting on the hose or the color will smear. Florence '68.

Students Keep Meters Filled

MANKATO, Minn. (AP)— A group of students have been spreading cheer for motorists and transportation for police. Patrick O'Leary, a Mankato State College student, recruited girl students to carry buckets of pennies ahead of meter maid and drop them into expired parking meters. O'Leary said it was done as a holiday treat for visitors to Mankato.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

More and more tournaments are going around muttering "CRO" beneath their breath, a memory aid for a high-powered version of the Blackwood convention.

The convention is called Roman Blackwood and it starts with a normal bid of four no trump. A response of five clubs now shows no aces or three aces. Five diamonds shows one ace of four aces.

So far, no problem. The mnemonic "CRO" is needed for the remaining responses.

Five hearts show two aces of the same color. Five spades show two aces of the same rank (major or minor). Five no trump shows two aces not of the same rank or color. Hence, CRO for Color, Rank, Odd.

Using this schedule, the Blackwood bidder who holds one ace can always identify the two aces held by him.

On the deal shown in the diagram, South could not safely bid the seven hearts or identify Blackwood, since North could hold the wasted spade ace. Playing Roman Blackwood, South learns that North holds the two minor aces. So he shoots a grand slam that would be 1cy if clubs broke 3-2. On the lead of the spade queen, the contract can be made even against a 4-1 club split.

Duck in dummy and draw trumps. Ruff the third round of diamonds and run trumps until left with one trump and four clubs. Dummy holds the king-ten of spades and a queen-small of clubs. Declarer plays king of club, ace of clubs. If either defender shows up with four clubs, he must have bared his spade honor and declarer can wangle a trick in that suit.

Criticism Greets Superport Rails

VANCOUVER (CP)—The proposed route of a railway line from Kaiser Steel Corp. coal mines in the Fernie area to the Roberts Bank superport site, 20 miles south of Vancouver, came under fire Friday from conservationists, Delta municipality and others.

The provincial government has given B.C. Hydro the right to build 27 miles of line to the port site, along the foreshore of Boundary Bay. The line will not cut across farmland.

The critics included Northern Development Minister Loring and the Lower Mainland regional planning board. The line will handle trains from Kaiser Steel's proposed route of a railway line to the Roberts Bank superport site, 20 miles south of Vancouver, came under fire Friday from conservationists, Delta municipality and others.

Planning board director V. J. Parker said Friday its studies and recommendations have been "totally ignored" and called the location a case of "saver expediency."

INDUSTRY BOOST

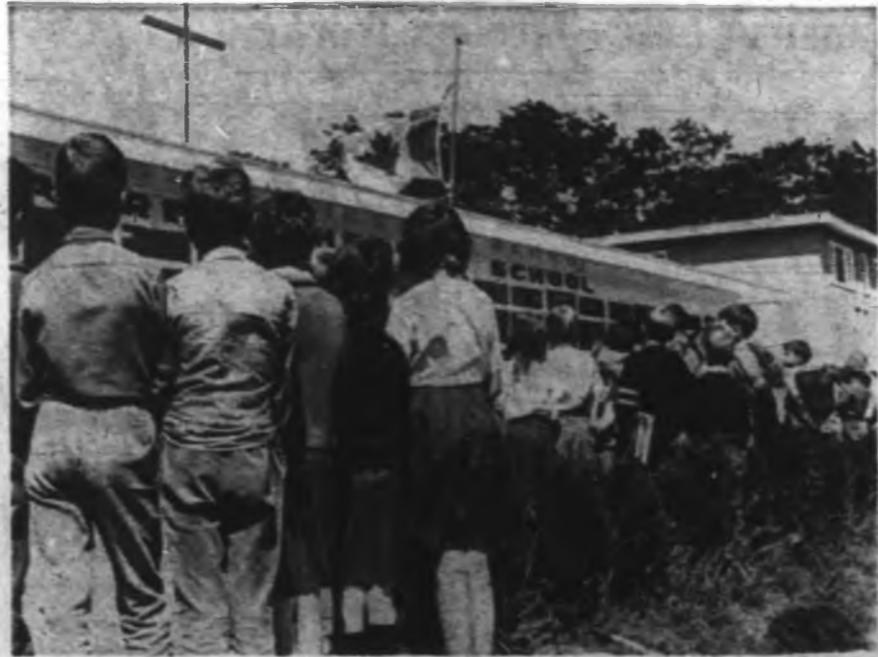

Delta administrator R. S. Concliffe said municipal leaders want the line to come down the Fraser River so it can stimulate industry in the northern part of the district.

He also said the rail line will cut off 10,000 residents of Tsawwassen from 5,000 people in Ladner.

Howard Paish, executive director of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, said the route will likely damage future recreational development and is a step toward destruction of the region as a waterfowl preserve.

Squaredancers To Celebrate

Victoria will celebrate B.C. squaredance week with a dance at 8:30 p.m. today at Lochside elementary school, 1145 Royal Oak.

Silent Tribute for Senator

Students at Sacred Heart School on MacKenzie Avenue stand in silence as school flag is lowered to half-mast Friday after classes in respect to memory of late Senator Robert Kennedy. Flag will be raised after today's funeral services for the assassinated New York senator. —(Jim Ryan)

Starchy Reply Cloaks Nurses' Strike Plans

A spokesman for British Columbia's registered nurses Friday refused to disclose what their strategy would be if they decided to go on strike next week.

"I'm not telling," replied Miss Evelyn Hood, bargaining officer for the Registered Nurses Association of British Columbia, when asked whether the nurses would set up picket lines.

They asked for 50 per cent and revisions to a number of non-economic clauses in their contract with members of the British Columbia Hospital Association.

Miss Hood said the 50 per cent increase — for example, it would raise the starting salary from $350 to $360 a month — would give B.C.'s nurses the highest pay of any group of registered nurses in Canada.

It also would give them parity with nurses in Washington, Oregon and some parts of California.

If the nurses establish picket lines other union members who work at hospitals or deliver supplies would have to decide whether they would cross them.

The nurses last week rejected by a majority of 81 per cent a conciliation board report which would have given them salary increases of between 21 and 27 per cent in two steps this year.

She said nurses were concerned that some employees with less training and responsibility were being paid more than they were.

A statement from the RNABC this week made some salary comparisons.

"In the area of direct patient care, an orderly with no formal training whatever, who gives only simple nursing care under the supervision of a registered nurse, earns $50 a month more than the nurse."

"Had the conciliation board's recommendations been accepted, an orderly's salary still would have been within a few dollars of the registered nurse's on the hospital wards."

Enduring solid oak in the Tudor manner superbly designed and made by British fine craftsmen

A heart-warming simplicity of fine craftsmanship and solid oak. Carried out with a superbly masculine emphasis in simplicity of line and exact and authentic detailing. Examine the linenefold paneling of the sideboard, the pegged top construction (no nails), the rush seats of the ladderback chairs, the dovetailing of the drawers. Note the authentic bulbous turnings (melon shaped) of the draw leaf refectory table. Choose this solid oak Sussex crafted suite for its strength, mellow beauty and individuality to enrich your home for a lifetime and still be an heirloom for your descendants.

Kennedy Mourners

Five Hours For Touch

NEW YORK (UPI) — The people who touched Kennedy's hand in life reached out Friday to touch his casket in death.

By the hundreds of thousands they came—rich and poor, black and white, old and young, male and female, immigrant and native-born, a vast polyglot stream of humanity united by a common sorrow.

Undeterred by 90-degree heat which turned midtown Manhattan into a bakeoven, they waited in line for upwards of five hours in order to spend five seconds filing past the bier in St. Patrick's cathedral where Senator Robert Kennedy lay in state. (See also Page 5.)

The throng of people wanting to say goodbye to the 42-year-old senator whose brilliant career was cut short by an assassin Wednesday in Los Angeles was so great that authorities had to abandon plans to cut off the procession at 10 p.m. They announced that the great neo-Gothic Roman Catholic Cathedral on Fifth Avenue would remain open all night.

BIGGEST YET

It was the biggest outpouring of grief in the big city's history. Funeral services for the senator will be held in the cathedral at 7 a.m. PDT today. All of the 2,300 seats will be filled with dignitaries, friends, relatives and other guests invited by the family.

The two men who were Kennedy's rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination—vice president Hubert Humphrey and Senator Eugene McCarthy—said they would attend. President Johnson's plans were not announced but no one would be surprised if he showed up.

Following the funeral mass, the body will be taken to Washington by train for burial later this afternoon in Arlington National Cemetery.

OTTAWA (CP) — The entire West Block of Parliament will be sealed off by security guards Sunday night in advance of the election campaign debate between the country's four top political leaders.

Prime Minister Trudeau, Conservative Leader Stanfield and NDP Leader Douglas are to launch the two-hour debate with live TV and radio coverage, at 6 p.m. PDT. They will be joined for the final 40 minutes by Creditiste Leader Chouette.

The security move, described as "a request of the parties," was disclosed at a press briefing Friday by Don MacPherson of Toronto, a CTV network producer heading the joint CBC-CTV program team.

PLUSH HALL

Technicians were busy Friday transforming the Confederation Room, a plush reception hall on the second floor of the building, into a TV studio.

Except for Douglas, who gave a news conference Friday afternoon, party leaders in Ottawa made themselves inconspicuous as the weekend of the TV encounter began.

Douglas, who told his news conference he thinks the election campaign "is going extremely well" from an NDP standpoint, was asked how he is preparing for the debate. "I am getting my jaw lubricated and trying to get one decent night's sleep," he said, grinning broadly.

TRUDEAU RELAXING

Prime Minister Trudeau was "relaxing," his press secretary, Romeo LeBlanc, said.

Stanfield was "thinking quietly" about the debate, his executive assistant, Bernard Flynn, said.

Stanfield is holding consultations with key party members and advisers, and reviewing fact sheets and position papers.

MacPherson said access to the four-storey stone West Block will be restricted to broadcast crews, the leaders and their aides. Four pre-selected press photographers will be admitted for five minutes while

'Third Way' for France:

Share Profit, Control

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle proposed Friday night a "third solution" to France's grave social problems, a course that would in his view avoid the "moral and material constraint" of communism and the "alienation" of the capitalist system.

De Gaulle said the solution was "participation," by which he appeared to mean that

low formulas that are not the stuff to satisfy the workers."

De Gaulle appealed for massive public support of his proposals for the June 23-30 elections and said everything depends on the voting results, "the republic, liberty, progress, independence and peace."

"If the election results are bad, all is lost," he added.

In Ottawa, spokesman for Prime Minister Trudeau said there would be no comment on the French president's statement until the full text of his remarks had been studied.

Jailers Stop Gun-Runner

Woman Arrested By Police

LOS ANGELES (Reuters) — Officials at the Los Angeles Central County Jail said Friday night a 55-year-old woman was arrested for trying to smuggle three guns hidden inside a typewriter into the jail where the alleged assassin of Senator Robert Kennedy is being held.

Prison officials, alert for any attempt to repeat the events of 1963 in Dallas, Tex., when President John F. Kennedy's assassin was himself shot down by a gunman posing as a journalist, said they searched the typewriter and found two Derringers and a revolver taped inside the case.

They gave the name of the woman as Miss Edith Grant.

However, the officials said it was not yet known if Miss Grant's attempt to smuggle in the guns was in any way connected with the presence of Sirhan Sirhan, Kennedy's alleged assassin.

Officials said all the guns were loaded.

The prison officials said she was delivering the typewriter to a prisoner who had ordered it, but they refused to give the prisoner's name.

They said the woman got no further than the first checkpoint—a closed off security area at the entrance to the jail.

'Dotted Dress' Reports To Sheriff

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — A belly dancer who said she believes she is the "young woman in a polka dot dress" sought in connection with the murder of Senator Robert Kennedy gave herself up to the Los Angeles sheriff's department Friday.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess said the girl denied knowing the suspected assassin—Sirhan Sirhan—but said she saw him before the crime near the Ambassador Hotel hallway where Kennedy was shot.

Pitchess had put out an all points bulletin for a woman a Kennedy worker said she saw running from the building after the shooting.

The witness said the woman wore a polka dot dress.

Pitchess said the girl who gave herself up identified as Kathy Fulmer, 19, of Los Angeles—told him she had been near the senator when he was shot, had been wearing a polka dot scarf, and had run from the building after the shooting.

LINK DENIED

But she insisted she had shouted, "They shot him," not "we shot him," Pitchess said, and she denied any connection with the shooting.

After talking with Pitchess and his investigators, the girl was questioned by Los Angeles police department detectives, who have primary investigative jurisdiction in the murder.

Pitchess said the young woman called his office shortly before 4 p.m. identified herself, and said she believed she was the woman police were seeking. A sheriff's car brought her to the Hall of Justice.

Nanaimo Loses Tireless Worker

Youth Champion, Pete Maffeo Dies

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — Pete Maffeo, for more than two decades Nanaimo's favorite son, died in Nanaimo regional general hospital Friday at 71.

Mr. Maffeo, who with 31 years as mayor became known throughout B.C. as Mr. Nanaimo and gathered friends very easily, died in his sleep while his wife, Vera and his daughter, Joyce, stood by his bed.

Pete was the name he was known by, as his friendliness demanded first-name recognition, though his stature in the community claimed to a higher title than just Mister.

In his 71 years, since he was born on Pridgeon Street where his ice cream plant stands today, Pete ran the gamut of public service with both his home and heart open to all.

He was orphaned at nine, later working as a coal miner at Extenden and Butte, Mont.

He served during the First World War with the 6th Field Canadian Engineers, starting his business on his return in July, 1919 on the premises of the Davenport Cafe, from which his business title was taken. He worked tirelessly for youth and recreation, serving for 25 years as director for Nanaimo's track and field meets.

He championed and worked for the building of parks and recreational areas, not the least of which was the civic area including the city hall and senior citizens housing.

He was awarded the OBE for his work with civil defence during the Second World War.

First elected as mayor in 1956, he spent the next 11 years in the job, winning in a landslide that year when opposed at the polls, but then returned by acclamation for each succeeding term.

He announced his retirement from office in 1967, when present mayor Frank Ney stated, "I would never run against Pete, both because he's my friend and because no one could even win against him. He's too popular."

Relaxed Maffeo

He was made a freeman of the city in January, and the same month given a place on the harbor commission.

He found that he still had something to give the city he loved even after 11 years of service.

Up to their last visit to Nanaimo, the Harlem Globetrotters always found time to visit with and frequently to stay in his home.

Although he never talked about it, the reason is common knowledge throughout the city.

When the Trotters first began to tour B.C. in the 30s they found prejudice that would not allow them to rent space.

This expansive man invited them to stay with him although some of the team had to curl up on the floor.

Mrs. Maffeo prepared food for all, and the friendship that spanned two countries and three decades was modified.

Service clubs were always confident that Mayor Maffeo would show up to any of their functions, despite the fact he sometimes had several functions to attend in the same night.

They arrived early in the morning and left after several hours. They carried a number of protest placards.

A similar group appeared last year when the H. R. Macmillan, the first Macmillan and Bloedel ship to be built in Japan, was in opposition.

When Pete Maffeo died, something was ripped from Nanaimo's heart.

The wound will not heal for some time.

"This is a sad night for Nanaimo," said Mayor Frank Ney.

"Pete Maffeo dedicated his life to the community of Nanaimo. He served our city and will go down in history as one of its great citizens."

"This hearts of the citizens of Nanaimo tonight express sorrow and anguish. Service to humanity is the greatest work in life. Such a man was Pete Maffeo."

Mayor Fred Bishop of Port Alberni said he was shocked to hear of Mr. Maffeo's death.

"He was a man I admired very much and I thought a great deal of him," said Mayor Bishop.

"I knew him for as long as I can remember. I first knew him through his interest in sports and naturally saw more of him then when we were both in office."

"If anyone ever earned the title of Mr. Nanaimo, he did. He spent all his life working for the young people and was always working on some project for the betterment of the city."

"It can be truly said he lived a full and useful life," said Mayor Bishop.

MR. MAFFEO wore his official robes and chain for first time away from city hall when he spoke to old age pensioners at their annual Christmas party in December, 1966. Standing behind him is Frank Ney who was Nanaimo's centennial celebrations chairman.

A similar group appeared last year when the H. R. Macmillan, the first Macmillan and Bloedel ship to be built in Japan, was in opposition.

He said vessels such as the J. V. Clyne were built in Japan and operated under Bermudian and Bloedel shipbuilding policies.

Health Risk Stressed

NANAIMO — An increase in glue-sniffing in the Nanaimo area has brought warnings from two city officials.

Sniffing or breathing fumes from airplane glue or nail polish remover may cause serious damage to health, said Dr. Hamish Symon, Nanaimo health unit director.

He said that in addition to the narcotic effect on the central nervous system, it can severely affect the liver.

The practice could end in death, warned Dr. Symon.

RCMP Staff Sergeant Gib Perry, Nanaimo's police chief, has asked parents to emphasize the danger of glue-sniffing to their children.

All are members of the Hospital Employees' Union.

DUNCAN—Cowichan district hospital's 60 lay staff members have been awarded a 1968 pay increase of more than nine per cent, or $28, to make their wages equal to those at other B.C. hospitals.

Next the staff, consisting of janitors, clerical workers, practical workers and housekeeping personnel, will receive another seven per cent, the equivalent of $24.

He said according to BCHIS standards, expenditures at the hospital are too high.

The hospital now is operating on an interim budget.

"We are going through each department trying to make sure that there is no unnecessary expenditure."

"Because salaries are 75 per cent of our expenditure we shall look at our staffing," said Mr. Noton.

He said drugs and medicine are also higher compared to what is considered normal under BCHIS standards.

"We are analyzing now to find out why it is higher."

Cowichan Hospital

Pay Boost Agreed

The hospital's 60 registered nurses will hold a strike vote Friday.

They are also negotiating on a provincial basis, said Ken Noton hospital administrator.

Mr. Noton explained that lay staff workers will also receive a boost in shift work differential of 80 cents per eight-hour shift. Until recently they received 20 cents per shift.

He said according to BCHIS standards, expenditures at the hospital are too high.

Ney Claims:

Small Stores Hurt By Zoning

NANAIMO — Mayor Frank Ney says Nanaimo seems to be unique in having zoning regulations restrictive to business.

He was discussing non-conforming use zoning after his return from the 1968 Canadian municipal convention in Edmonton.

However the regulation prevents premises to expand or change, said Mayor Ney, restricting the business to gradual decay.

Long, Long Short Cut

NANAIMO — While he was in Edmonton for the 1968 Canadian municipal convention, Mayor Frank Ney saw Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau having his hair cut in the Lacombe Hotel.

Before long, 300 people had gathered outside the shop to watch, said Mayor Ney.

"The barber struck out that haircut for an hour. He really showed himself to be an enterprising businessman because he must have got quite a few new customers from that one haircut."

FURTHER STUDY
Council supported Mayor Ney's views and returned the commission recommendation for refusal for further study.

Mayor Ney said he had gone to the convention of 1,200 mayors with some trepidation as it was his first term.

"I thought they'd be rather talkative politicians, but I found them to be all quite normal and likeable people."

Taxes were the main subject in discussion.

CASH NEEDED

With the prediction that 69 per cent of Canada's population will be centred in 27 cities, more funds must be found to handle the needs of these larger communities, it was stated.

Mayor Ney said that the annual increase, by 10 per cent, of costs, due to rising prices and labor, also indicate much higher budgets for cities.

The convention discussed cities imposing sales and income taxes as ways of solving the problem.

Referring to the local scene, he said, "I hope we'll come up with a real expansive winter works program for boulevards, and get them cleaned up."

SIDEWALK WORK

He added, "Ald. Ken Midland is coming up with a real good sidewalk program — 17 miles of sidewalks."

This has also been a continual problem with councils as many streets near schools have no sidewalks, he said.

Nanaimo has carried out a cash program of paving gravel roads, the last of which is expected to be finished before midsummer.

Four Candidates View Problems in Canada

DUNCAN — Four views from Gauges, Douglas Cavaye has been re-elected chairman of the Lady Minto Gulf Islands hospital board for a third term.

Miss Joan Purchase of Pender Island is vice-chairman and Harold Hoffman secretary-treasurer.

Irl Brady and Maurice Atcheson have been appointed to the executive committee and Mrs. E. M. Moore is auditor.

The board has been told that the late Jimmy Neill of Mayne Island requested that his estate should be divided between the Red Cross blood donor clinic in Victoria, the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children and the Lady Minto Hospital.

Mr. Brady and Mrs. Atcheson.

The dinner is being co-sponsored by the Duncan Chinese Community and St. John's Anglican Church.

Mr. Jang and his wife, Vicki, have operated Bob's Grill in Duncan for the past eight years.

The couple came to Duncan from Vancouver 21 years ago.

They have three children, Steven, 20, Barbara, 18 and Christine, 15.

John Walsh of Qualicum Beach has been elected a member of the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board for the Vancouver Island area. He will hold the post for one year.

The Princess of Vancouver found itself having to give way to a log boom at Nanaimo this week.

The tug demanded its right of way and delayed the Princess for 33 minutes.

He repeated his party's proposal to remove the 11 per cent tax on building materials.

He said his party has proposed an exchange program to keep Canadian capital in Canada.

He said the reason why Canada has a large deficit was because the Liberal government refused to listen to the advice from tax experts.

Mr. Cameron told a heckler

"Fifty-seven per cent of Montreal live at the poverty line and 27 per cent in destitution and you talk about the most affluent society in the world."

"You should damned well be ashamed of yourself."

Lorne Lee, Socred, said the tax load should be put where it belongs.

"I do know in our present tax structure we may need all this money to operate Canada and, if we need it, Canada is worth it to spend the money in."

"At the same time I don't understand why a man talking out a business licence to start a logging camp, or any other business, is immediately exempted from certain items in the income tax."

Mr. Lee advocated the working man should have a stronger voice in Ottawa.

Two Projects Given Help

Provincial grants of $50,000 to Mount Benson Senior Citizens Housing Society of Nanaimo, and $35,300 to Ladysmith Senior Citizens Housing Society were approved by cabinet Friday.

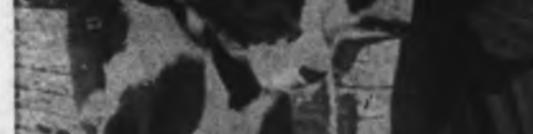

The amounts represent the 30 per cent B.C. share of the capital cost of the projects.

Uncertain Future

Recently Bruce Dykstra, 27, won a three-week-old calf at Duncan Christian School bazaar. On Thursday, Cowichan Station farmer Gerry Wilkerink presented him with the prize.

The exchange took place at the door of the Royal Bank of Canada, Duncan, where Dykstra works as an accountant. The two men decided it would be better if Wilkerink sells the calf at an auction.

Mr. Dykstra and his wife Vicki have two daughters, Sandra Lynne, 2½, and Brenda, six weeks old.

De Gaulle Claims Start Of Quebec 'Liberation'

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle said Friday that one of the revolutionary actions of his life was to bring the beginning of the liberation of the French people in Canada.

This passing reference to his famous "Vive le Québec libre" cry during his curtailed tour of Canada last year was part of a list of occasions in which he had been a revolutionary that the French president gave in his television interview Friday night.

Others he mentioned were starting the resistance to Nazi occupation, giving the right to vote to women and Africans, achieving decolonization, starting a process of uniting Europe through a rapprochement between East, centre and West, and helping developing countries.

Advice to Graduands:

'Have No Mercy On Politicians'

School days behind them, 1,223 high school students took a long look at themselves and the world they have to live in at recognition ceremonies Friday in five Greater Victoria schools.

And the world was painted a place of cold comfort by guest speakers who warned of violence, corruption, and revolt.

"I am conscious that my generation has not left you much to remember them kindly by," A. G. Coning, manager of Mayfair Shopping Plaza told the graduating class at Mount Douglas high school.

No Mercy

"Politicians, ministers of religion, and bird dogs work best when they are hungry — that goes for local aldermen too," Mr. Coning told the students as he urged them to call politicians to account for their actions and policies.

"Have no mercy on them; if they serve you for pay, see they give full value," he said.

"If they serve you out of a sense of duty, see that they perform that duty."

"Do not allow any elected representative in any field of government to think for one minute that his seat is safe, or that it will be kept warm for him," said Mr. Coning.

"In the United States, government has been allowed to weaken, and the country is being influenced unduly by the giant business corporations, the heads of the armed services and departments of government which are not called upon for public accounting in finance and policy."

Mass Horror

"As a result things have been allowed to happen in Vietnam so that future generations of Asians will not remember them for the food, clothing, textbooks and teachers which they supplied free, but for a chain of mass horror."

"We have developed mass murder into an art."

"We have perfected means to distort the minds of men. We have instituted, and practise openly—a system of cheating you out of value for your money, and among our greatest crimes is the fact that we have polluted with industrial and human waste those facilities which you could use for relaxation and recreation."

"We have allowed this to happen," continued Mr. Coning, "while our representatives have discussed very solemnly and at great length the best way of impounding people's household pets."

Sea Diet

He told the attentive students that in 50 years there will be a world food shortage, and they will be eating plankton. There will be a world water shortage, and they will drink water condensed from the sea.

As consolation the medical profession is confident that they will stay alive longer—perhaps long enough to see a shortage of plankton and sea water.

At Esquimalt high school the guest speaker was Mayor Ray Bryant.

He lashed out at the news media, and at what he called a sense of lawlessness in society today.

"We have witnessed only a few short days ago, the horrific results of lawlessness with the striking down of Senator Robert Kennedy," he said.

Society's Peril

"The constant emphasis and glorification of sensationalism and immortality is playing a part in seriously weakening the fabric of the American Society."

He classified the movie, Bonnie and Clyde as an example of American blood-lust.

"Hero worship or glamorizing lawlessness is but one that you as the future public of North America will have to live with and somehow cope with," said the mayor.

There has been an intense breakdown in communications, particularly in the communications industry.

Gory Details

Newspapers and radio dwell on the gory details of human suffering and failings which represent only 1 per cent of the total population.

"In this respect I feel very strongly that the news media have let us down badly in their constant emphasis and sensationalism and notoriety and their reason for this emphasis is even worse."

"If you talk to many people in the news media they will tell you that this is because it is what sells newspapers . . ."

Mr. Bryant suggested that this is wrong.

"They are," alleged Mr. Bryant, "in this manner contributing far less than they are capable of in fulfilling their function of representing the truth."

He urged that students who are concerned with government administration to get out and change the government or change the policy of the party in power.

He also suggested that those who feel strongly that marijuana should not be on the list of prohibited drugs should take a positive approach.

"Get out and lobby for the changing of the law. Get out and settle once and for all the merits of whether it is or is not a good thing."

"You will accomplish nothing by snubbing it and dismissing it as a bad law, and breaking it for that reason," said Mr. Bryant.

School Switch

School board chairman Peter Bunn spoke to Victoria high school students about the need for changes in education.

Schools should be in operation on a six day a week basis with students getting Sunday and one other day off.

Schools should open in the evenings for catch up courses in addition to present night school courses.

"If we spend money on such things as this we won't have money for other government programs that are vital to all the people," he added.

One of the major problems for young couples is trying to find an apartment that ac-

Rioting students in Europe and the U.S. are demonstrating "freedom to burn, freedom to kill, freedom to destroy and freedom from any social discipline," said Prof. Loft.

He said the logical conclusion is anarchy, followed quickly by authoritarianism.

A set of four characteristics for responsible citizens were listed by William Reid, assistant superintendent of education to Mount View students.

Trudeau Expects Mob at Mile 0

Prime Minister Trudeau will have two open air rallies when he campaigns in Victoria June 17, it was learned Friday.

One will be centred near the Mile 0 sign of the Trans-Canada Highway on the waterfront and the second will be at Victoria International Airport, before he flies to Edmonton.

Party sources would not confirm or deny the arrangements, which they said would have to be announced by Liberal officials in Vancouver.

The prime minister's planned visit here June 2, subsequently cancelled, would have seen him address a rally in Memorial Arena, which has a seating capacity of about 8,000.

However, if the weather is good on the afternoon of Monday, June 17, he is likely to speak to many more than that.

Prime Minister Trudeau probably will arrive on the waterfront in a helicopter and, after the rally, travel in a convertible to the airport.

At the passenger terminal, the Liberals are arranging for bands to keep the crowd entertained until the prime minister arrives.

The visit is being set up so that the prime minister will be able to meet the people in both Greater Victoria ridings.

Grit Raps Tory Proposal For Housing Subsidies

The average taxpayer who owns his own home or lives in an apartment should not have to subsidize the housing costs of others, Liberal candidate David Anderson said Friday night.

"The person who is buying a $50,000 home in the Uplands should not expect any other member of society to help him pay the interest on the money he must borrow," he told a meeting in Jubilee Hall on Fraser Street.

Mr. Anderson said some Conservative candidates have suggested the government subsidize interest payments.

"If we spend money on such things as this we won't have money for other government programs that are vital to all the people," he added.

One of the major problems for young couples is trying to find an apartment that accepts children. The candidate suggested a system used in New Zealand, in which young couples are allowed to capitalize their family allowances as a downpayment on a home.

Speaking to a rally at his campaign headquarters in Victoria's riding, Liberal David Gross said there were problems in housing and interest rates but the government was shifting its emphasis toward allocating more money for low-income dwellings.

He also attacked the Conservatives for proposing policies which would increase the size of the civil service.

He said if Conservative leader Robert Stanfield wanted to do more about consumer affairs, air pollution and housing, he should not be "the first to complain when the civil service grows a little to keep pace."

By NANCY BROWN

Recent statements on Indian involvement in regional districts by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell were dubbed "sheer political hogwash" Friday by Tsartlip band Chief Philip Paul.

"Mr. Campbell has never taken the trouble to find out anything at all about how we feel, or what our needs are," said Mr. Paul.

"He has repeatedly been invited to meetings of Indian organizations, but has never been interested enough to attend in person. He's always sent a representative."

Mr. Campbell has urged Indians to participate actively in the affairs of regional districts throughout B.C. as a step towards the creation of village municipalities on some reserves.

The move, he said, would allow Indian areas to obtain the benefit of such services as sewers and planning, and Mr. Campbell suggested that the department of Indian Affairs should guarantee payment of the Indian share of regional costs.

FOR MONEY

"The only reason they would want to include us would be for economic reasons," continued Mr. Paul.

"They might get more money from the federal government—they certainly wouldn't be interested in doing anything to our favor at a life of stability."

Mr. Paul said other provinces have made grants to Indian organizations to further work on reserves.

NOT IN B.C.

"We get none of this kind of co-operation in B.C.," he said.

He observed that the federal Indian affairs department suggested that the provincial government should take over Indian welfare with the department paying 96 per cent of costs.

"The B.C. government demanded 110 per cent because they said Indians have so many problems," continued Mr. Paul.

NOT INTERESTED

"We just don't believe the provincial government is interested in us."

He said the whole plan to have Indian participation in regional districts is the figment of someone's imagination.

"Anyone who knows anything at all about our Indian reserves knows that we are far away from the day when we can enter into that kind of thing."

NOT PRACTICAL

"It's a fine idea to aim at some day, but not a practical suggestion."

"We don't get anything in return."

"They have to give us more indication that they are interested in providing us with a genuine service, where we will be getting the benefit, not something just pulled out of the hat—a vague statement of nothing."

Hydrofoil Settling Down

By DON COLLINS

For the first time since it staggered rather uncertainly into the nautical horizon a month ago, the hydrofoil Victoria seems to be settling down to a life of stability.

Or so its backers hope.

"It's made eight regular runs in a row without a miss," explains William Niedermair of Seattle, president of Northwest Hydrofoil Lines.

For some time book of transportation, eight days without mishap would be nothing out of the ordinary. But for the Victoria, it's a record.

Until settling down a week ago, it had operated on a sort of off-again-on-again basis, chiefly because of a misbehaving docking motor system.

And now that it is starting to show signs of regularity, the Victoria is also beginning to attract more customers.

Some of its early trips have been made with no more than 10 passengers, although it is capable of carrying 50.

Today it will carry its biggest load yet—40.

"Before people book for a trip they want to be sure the craft is going to leave as scheduled. We knew this and expected things to go as they have so far," said Mr. Niedermair.
